Farm machinery exposition called success by exhibitors

By DIETER KRIEG

HARRISBURG — The verdict is in: The first Pennsylvania Machinery Exposition was a success, according to a majority of agribusinessmen who took part in it.

It was a success not because of huge crowds coming to see it, but rather because most of those who did come were genuinely interested in the products that were on display.

The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture estimates that 15,000 to 20,000 people visited the Exposition, which is a far cry from the 450,000 people who come to see the Farm Show. While that was a disappointing turnout for many exhibitors, most all felt that the show had been worthwhile and they hoped to have the opportunity to come back again next year.

The fact that there were no big crowds actually delighted a number of showmen, and according to at least one account, the Expo attracted visitors who don't come to the January Farm Show.

The most frequently heard complaint was that exhibitors felt the Exposition managers should have done a better job of promoting the show.

We asked some of the exhibitors to evaluate the Expo, which ran for three

"In three days, with the genuine inquiries we've had, we came out alright," said David McFarland, right. "This is a different clientele - really good people," added David Smith, left. Both represented the Long Manufacturing Co. at the Farm Machinery Exposition in Harrisburg last week.

Dairy marketing strategies outlined by promotion agency

By JOAN LIESAU

LANCASTER – "You are not only producers but marketers as well" stated Richard Norton, Manager of Middle Atlantic Milk Marketing Area Advertising and Promotion Agency. Norton spoke to several hundred people at both the Dairy Day and Interstate Milk Producer's District 5 banquet held recently. He explained the "bold new advertising programs" which are "financed and run by dairy farmers".

Norton explained there are two promotional efforts planned this year, with a possible third if the advertising budget allows it.

"Carefree Days go Lightly the Dairy Way" is the theme Americans will be hearing this June which is Dairy Month. The "quick and ease of building meals around dairy products" will be promoted. Sales with cottage cheese, toppings with sour cream and easy, refreshing, cold dairy products will be pushed. Pouring a glass of cold milk will be emphasized, rather than reaching for a sweetened drink or soda.

"Food Your Choice" is presently being promoted to over three million children. Because "80 per cent of the milk is sold through grocery stores" the February-March promotion is based on the rational that most people over spend during the holidays. "This program gives a way to build around

Lancaster County may get $10 million program

By GARY MAYK

LANCASTER – Farmers in a 30,000-acre area of Lancaster County, probably east of Blue Ball, may share in a $10 million conservation program aimed at cutting agricultural pollution of the Conestoga River.

If approved, Rural Clean Water program could enable some of those farmers to receive up to 90 per cent cost-share funds with a maximum of $50,000 per farm.

It would be the highest share ever for local farmers improving their operations through conservation plans. Farmers will have to be cooperators of the Lancaster County Conservation District to qualify.

The area targeted for the funds is part of the state's worst agricultural water pollution problem, the Conestoga River, stte officials say. Afton Schadel of the Bureu of Water Quality Management told the LCCD recently that Lancaster, has three of the state's worst pollution areas. YUork has tow of the top 10. Other high-ranking areas are in in the Delaware River Basin and Potomac River Basin.

The Rural Clean Waters program is a 1980 federal project still awaiting final Congressional approval. It would be funded with $75 million, an amount that matches the dollars cut by the Carter Administration from the Agricultural Conservation Program.

Schadel said, "EPA (federal Environmental Protection Agency) indicated there might be one or two or three projects in the first year." But that's for the entire country. Schadel said, so any program at all in Pennsylvania would be fortunate.

The key to the program is high participation by farmers in the target area. That's the reason for the $50,000 limit and the possible 90 per cent cost-share.

"Within three years, you need 50 per cent of those land owners under agreement," Schadel said. "Within five years, you need 75 per cent."

Schadel sees it as an opportunity for the conservation district "to step to the forefront" and "really make an imprint in the county." Yearly checks to assure that conservation plans are being carried out will be necessary. "Make sure the measures that are planned get into the ground, because a plan isn't worth a

Charles Werner, left, of Pennsylvania Harvestore Systems, Dillsburg, considered the Expo to be "almost perfect in every respect." He liked the fact that it wasn't crowded, saying: "We had a nice flow of people, and our registrations were as good as at the Farm Show."

From calf to cow, we formulate feeds and feeding programs with your profit in mind.

Are you in the dairy business to stay?

Are you ready to devote an hour or so of your time planning for a more profitable future?

If your answer to both questions is yes, you owe it to yourself to read what we have to say.

Unlike many other feed companies, we develop custom feeding programs for each individual dairy.

It all starts with a Pennfield man reviewing your total operation with you. Your goals. Your records. The health and overall condition of your milking cows and young stock. Your management practices. Your roughage feeding program. And other factors that have an effect on your profit potential.

We also conduct laboratory analysis of the roughages you feed to determine their nutrient content.

With the aid of computers, we then design a balanced feeding program specifically tailored to your operation and goals—a program that can improve your profits by reducing expenses, increasing production, or both.

For example, while using a Pennfield customized feeding program, 30 herds this past year averaged 1,688 lbs. more milk and 64 lbs. more fat per cow than the previous year.

There is no cost—or obligation—for this unique service. But you must take the first step by writing or phoning us. Do it today.

Omaha Cattle

March 15, 1979

Cattle - closing prices on slaughter steers were weak to 25 cents lower and heifers closed 25-50 cents lower, instances 75 cents off on Good and low-Choice 800-900 lbs. Cows were unevenly weak to 1.00 lower, mostly 50-1.00 off. Bulls were steady.

The fed cattle trade followed a reasonably stable course as marketings returned to a more normal pattern. Live prices were forced downward on Tuesday as the carcass trade trended sharply lower, but part of the downturn was regained on a meager midweek supply. However, most buying interests still confined numbers to immediate requirements. The overall finish was not particularly attractive with a large share Good to average Choice, and many consignments carried considerable mud. Feeder buyers were somewhat less aggressive for two-way steers than was the case the previous week. Steers made up approximately 33 pct and heifers 30 pct. Cows comprised 12 pct and feeders 22 pct.

STEERS: Load and part loads Choice and Prime 3-4 1223-1307 lbs. 71.25-71.50 early. At midweek, load and part loads Choice and Prime 3-4 1200-1248 lbs. 70.50-71.00. Choice 2-4 relatively clean 1000-1275 lbs. 69.50-70.50, some mostly Choice quite muddy 68.75-69.50. Mixed Good and Choice 2-3 1000-1225 lbs. 68.00-69.50. Good 2-3 63.50-68.50.

Average of LS-214, detailed quotations for Choice 900-1100 lbs. steers this week 69.80; Choice 1100-1300 lbs. 69.92. Average weight steers for this week 1150 lbs. as compared 1136 lbs. previous week. Average weight heifers for this week 979 lbs. compared 968 lbs. previous week.

BULLS: 1-2 1400-2100 lbs. 60.00-68.00, individual 1 69.00-70.00.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

International Uniform Sunday School Lessons

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

WHEN IN DOUBT

Lesson for March 18, 1979

Background Scripture:
1 Corinthians
5:9 through 6:8.
Devotional Reading:
1 Corinthians 4:1-7

Several years ago I saw a shocking display of temper and agression in — of all places! — a church retreat center.

Two different groups were sharing the center's facilities. One group was engaged in serious study, the other in boisterous recreation. For a while the first group tried to ignore the clamor, but to no avail. Finally, the leader of this group sought out the leader of the group at play and, in what he believed to be a most reasonable manner, asked the other group's cooperation. The other leader was quick to agree, but before they could return to their respective groups, a pushing and shouting match erupted between a member of each group. In a few short moments, blows had been struck and only the intervention of the leaders averted further mishap.

When There's A Grievance

The people involved in the dispute above were not children or youth. They were adults. What shocked me as I witnessed this incident was, not that there was a grievance between these two groups, but that these people did not seem to know how to react to the grievance without becoming belligerant.

Although they may not often come to blows as in the incident I have described, there are many times when Christians seem not to know how to handle grievances and differences among themselves. I have sat through church meetings that fairly dripped with hostility and bitterness. I have seen church groups take each other to court. I have seen members of denominational boards behave as if other board members were representitives of the anti-Christ instead of brothers in Christ. You, too, have probably witnessed similar situations in the life of the church.

Grievances are not something new in the life of the church. In 1 Corinthians 5 and 6 we find that Paul is distressed over a situation he finds in the church at Corinth: "When one of you has a grievance against a brother, does he dare go to law before the unrighteous instead of the saints?" (6:1). Paul was shocked at the spectacle of one Christian taking another to court. What a terrible witness to the world. "To have lawsuits at all with one another is defeat for you" (6:7).

Rather Suffer

Once again, Paul is not shocked that there are disagreements: he knows human nature. What he is shocked at, however, is that these Christians have not found some constructive way to handle their disagreements. Their anger and bitterness defeat their whole purpose. A much better way, he says: "Why not suffer wrong? Why not rather be defrauded?" (6:7b,8). In other words, Paul is saying that if it comes to a choice between suffering wrong or doing wrong, it is better to choose the former. When in doubt, remember the cross.

NOW IS THE TIME

TO PREVENT WATER POLLUTION

The quality of our water supplies in this part of the state warrant more attention. Many folks are bothered with high bacteria count or with high nitrates. Both of these are undesirable for both domestic and livestock consumption. When the feedlots and barns are cleaned out this spring, every effort should be made to incorporate this manure in to the topsoil just as quickly as possible. With liquid manure the soil injection-type of spreader does an excellent job. With other types of surface spreaders, the manure should be disced or plowed into the topsoil soon after application; this is especially true on slopes above water supplies. The application of fertilizers warrants the same attention; get it mixed with the topsoil quickly after application. Surface water should be directed away from wells and cisterns.

TO TOPDRESS WHEAT

When vegetative growth begins in the spring, it is time to apply extra nitrogen to the stand of wheat. This is very true in sandy, gravel, or shale-type soils. The amount of nitrogen per acre will vary from 25 to 60 pounds per acres; this depends upon the fertility of the soil and whether or not the field is seeded down to a legume hay crop. In the latter case, only 25 to 30 pounds of actual nitrogen per acre is suggested; there is danger of severe lodging of the grain with larger amounts. Most wheat varieties will response with higher yields when topdressed with nitrogen early in the spring.

TO STORE PESTICIDES CAREFULLY

The spray season is at hand when various kinds of materials will be applied. The storage and handling of these spray materials is often neglected. We urge gardeners and farmers to keep these pesticides away from children, pets, and livestock. They should be kept in a special room or buildings under lock and key. Also, left-over bags and containers have been the cause of numerous poisoning cases. Be sure these are burned, buried, or put into a public land-fill. Over the years partly used bags and containers of spray materials have been left exposed; this permits youngsters and livestock to get to them readily. Be sure this does not happen at your place. Keep all materials in the original container, or well indentified.

TO PARTICIPATE

Many decisions are being made these days relating to land use and the preserving of farm land. I'm concerned why we cannot have more active farmers take part on these community and county boards and commissions. I have promoted this idea several times previously but am not sure that I'm reaching very many farmers. These decisions are going to be made in most localities; when farmers do not take part in these groups, other folks will come forward. The resulting regulations may not be to the liking of agriculture. In order to get good agricultural thinking into these groups, we urge more good farmers to take part; this should result in more practical regulations and better for agriculture in general.

days last week. Following is what they had to say.

"It was a very quiet show numberwise, but the inquiries we had were much more serious and interesting and genuine on all of the equipment we had here," commented David McFarland of Long Manufacturing. "In the three days, with the genuine inquiries we've had, we came out allright. This is a different clientele - really good people," added David Smith, also a Long representative.

"The nice thing about this show is that we don't have the non-farming public in here clogging everything up," McFarland continued. "And the people came from all over," said Smith, citing visitors from as far away as Maine, West Virginia, and Ohio. "Quite a few came from New Jersey and the Eastern Shore of Maryland."

Smith's and McFarland's only complaint was that they felt the show should have been promoted better by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

Will Godwin of Dari-Kool expressed disappointment in

(Turn to Page 35)

Cliff Halloway, right, representing Vermeer Manufacturing Company, said he got a lot of leads despite a low attendance to the Equipment Exposition. Comparing notes with him is Lancaster County dairyman Donald Ranck.

The people from AMS/OIL said they had at least twice the response from Machinery Exposition visitors than they originally anticipated. Was the show any good? "Definitely," says William Shirk, center, who is looking forward to coming back next year.

The Extra Bale

In anthracnose country, it's SARANAC AR the best alfalfa you can plant!

Anthracnose? Plant Saranac AR and forget about it!

Even in hot, humid weather when shirts stick to your back and anthracnose is sweeping neighboring fields, Saranac AR goes right on producing the extra yields and extra protein farmers expect from an alfalfa named Saranac. It's bred for your kind of land and your kind of weather. Bred to meet your six to eight ton goals even when ordinary alfalfas are curling over and turning yellow-brown.

When it comes to bacterial wilt and hard winters, Saranac AR meets them head on. It's highly wilt resistant; bred for fast recovery and long-lived stands. Pre-innoculated, of course. Get the Extra Bales with certified Saranac AR. The only one to plant where anthracnose threatens ordinary alfalfas. See your dealer for details.

BON AQUA OWNER SAYS:

Three months ago we bought a BON AQUA but were very skeptical of the claims; however, with the money back guarantee we figured we had nothing to lose.

Since then I no longer have had to reset the washer 2 or 3 times to fill. After 16 years, low water pressure had become a way of life. No longer!

We've turned our water heater temperature down. I am using the same low amount of detergent that I did with the water softener, but our clothes are cleaner and whiter due to all the soap rinsing out.

In the dishwasher no spots have appeared on my silverware and glasses.

BON AQUA really does more than claimed at least it has in our household.

You get top feed conversion & better daily gains with Bovotone 12-D.

Relying on homegrown grain and roughage this year? Make your cattle more feed-efficient by fortifying their rations with Bovotone 12-D.

Grain and grain silage, while high in energy, are low in minerals, vitamins, and other nutrients that promote top performance. Bovotone 12-D corrects these deficiencies and encourages maximum feed intake when high levels of silage are fed.

Keep your out-of-pocket costs low throughout growing and finishing periods by using the most economical source of additional protein available.

Bovotone 12-D makes a difference you can take to the bank. Your figures will prove it.

Use 10% less feed with Bovotone No. 76
If your feed supply is low, or you simply want better feed efficiency, fortify with Bovotone No. 76. This highly potent pre-mix contains Rumesin% plus all the vitamins and minerals needed to properly fortify feedlot rations. You can save over 10 percent on your feed supply, and that means more profit for you.

Now is the time to compare.

hoot if it's not implemented," Schadel said.

Before application is made, the district will have to determine that enough support is there. That's why the exact boundaries of the target area are uncertain, according to Warren Archibald, conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service in Lancaster.

Most areas of the county already have 30 to 35 per cent of the resident farmers on the district cooperator roles. Schadel said making the 50 per cent requirement by the third year would mean obtaining only an additional 15 per cent, which should be possible.

Aaron Stauffer, the Ephrata area farmer and restauranteur who is the district's chairman, reminded members, "State law says if you are not a cooperator, you are in violation of the law now."

In addition to its status as the state's worst agriculturally tainted river, the Conestoga has its location and local importance making it likely to qualify. Ralph Matticks, SCS resource conservationist, explained that the number of people in Lancaster, downstream from the source of target area, and their partial reliance on the river for drinking water will be determining factors.

Matticks said the amount of soil lost through surface flow is the main factor. Chemicals also are washed into the river with the soil.

The program could last as long as 15 years. In other years, if Congress appropriates more money, Lancaster might be able to submit other areas for consideration. Other areas in the state also will be asked to submit applications.

"ENERGY-PAK"

IS OXYGEN CONTROLLED

*WHAT IS AN "ENERGY-PAK" OXYGEN CONTROLLED FEED STORAGE SYSTEM?

The "Energy-Pak" "Oxygen Controlled" Storage System includes a solid, steel reinforced concrete wall with a tough epoxy coating on the inside wall and a cone shaped concrete roof. All access openings to the Silage Storage area are round and fitted with air-tight gaskets These round openings are easily clamped tight These features help to control and limit the amount of oxygen that comes in contact with the feed

In operating an "Energy-Pak", prime importance is placed on closing the silo after each filling and feeding operation Proper use of this system significantly reduces the oxygen content in the silo and results in a more ideal condition for maintaining the quality of the feed put into it

Engineered for Convenience And Dependability

LIFE on the farm

By Dieter Krieg, Editor

As I write this, I'm sitting on a padded chair in a heated office, but I'm not convinced that this is more comfortable than a hay bale in the dairy barn or a place near the old potbelly stove down at the machinery shop.

I like the secure, warm, and satisfying feeling that the barn and shops offer. The winds of March may be giving us one last blast of Winter, but indoors we can feel as snug as a bug in a rug.

I've often stood by a window of the barn, staring out at frozen mud, electrical wires dancing in the wind, naked trees bending to the will of the storm, and loose sheets of tin flapping on the roof. And I've felt the bone-chilling gusts try to bore their way through each and every crack around the windows. It's a cold, uninviting scene.

To realize then that I'm standing in a barn warmed by 40 Holsteins and scented by the pleasant odors of hay, straw, silage, the cows themselves, and even manure - is most satisfying. It's a nice place to be, especially when it's cold and windy outside.

We were always reminded of the warmth of the barn every time we carried milk to the adjoining milk house. We'd set one of the full buckets down, push a sliding door to the side, and be greeted by a blast of wind that chilled the cheeks and sent a cloud of lime to the opposite end of the barn. We always tried to close that door as quickly as we could to keep the cold from intruding any more than absolutely necessary.

The family dog and a whole herd of barn cats liked the stable too. They all had favorite resting places on the straw or hay that was stacked by the wall and ready for use that evening. Talk about warmth and comfort, those four-legged friends of ours were the ones who really had it made.

Not to be forgotten on a list of favorite places in the Winter time is the feed store or farm machinery dealership that still has a foot in an age that is rapidly disappearing.

Those old places never did impress me as a place of business, but they sure had an atmosphere that was uniquely their own. They were more than a place of business. They were a gathering place - where tales were told and tobacco was spit. What's more, they were a nice warm place to kill a little time if you were so inclined.

Big picture windows, shelves filled super-market style with lots of goods, and nearly spotless floors just don't have the same flavor as the old stores that were warmed by potbelly stoves and unshaven farmers in overalls comparing Spring plans. The farmers, soiled wooden floors and wood-fired stoves have a character all their own. In some places the service wasn't always the best, but the place was warm nonetheless in more ways than one.

The trends of modern farming and agribusiness are causing some of the old "personalities" of the business to go by the wayside, I'm sorry to say.

More and more, the warm stanchion barn is being replaced with cold free-stall units. The thick stone walls and heavy timers are gone on many farms. They had character and warmth. Two-by-fours and sheets of tin are cheaper, but they also lack the comfort and security feeling I used to know.

Farm stores are looking more and more like automobile dealerships and drug stores. Sophisticated equipment, with high price tags is on display, and computer terminals have taken the place of parts books that were a yard or more wide. Gone is the overturned barrel by the stove where old-timers had for years battled for dominance in the world of checkers, political opinion, and tractor colors.

It goes without argument that these new, modern places of business are probably more efficient and impressive. But like many of those new barns, they haven't yet acquired that unique character that offers a special sense of belonging because that's what we have known all our lives.

Farm Expo

Dave Heath and Orlyn Saner dismantle one of their displays at the Machinery Exposition, held last week at the Farm Show Building in Harrisburg.

These representatives from the Royster Fertilizer Company indicated they had talked to as many people at the Equipment Exposition as they had at the January Farm Show, despite a huge difference in attendance. "Less people, but the kind who are interested," said Harold Brecht happily. From left to right are Dave Borsoi, Brecht, and Don Lohr.

AGWAY

Worms Are Stealing Your Milk

Break the worm cycle with

BAYMIX FROM AGWAY

More than ninety percent of all dairy cows are worm-infested It's true Researchers have found worms in nine out of ten dairy cows inspected With these odds, chances are your herd has worms (internal parasites)

Worms can cost you money by reducing...

- milk production potential
- feed efficiency
- growth of replacement animals

BAYMIX is the "Dollars and Sense" wormer. Here's why:

- There is no milk withdrawal with Baymix so you can worm the whole herd at one time milking cows, dry cows, calves and replacements
- Only by worming the whole herd at one time can you effectively break the worm cycle and reduce internal parasitisms on the whole farm
- Easy and convenient to feed No handling or restraints to stress animals Just topdress on feed for six days

Let Agway check your herd for worms...

BAZOOKA® GRAIN MOVING SYSTEMS

Components that move grain can be as important as the storage bins or drying bins you choose. Augers are the heart of your system because they do the work . . . keep you going during the busy harvest time.

Bazooka augers are long lasting and smooth running. You have a wide choice of capacities, accessories and drives. You can also expand any Bazooka system with a minimum of expense.

BAZOOKA transport augers have chrome-plated intake flighting that doubles its life, a galvanized drive shaft that reduces maintenance time, and permanently lubricated, precision machined chain reducer drive with cast iron housing. Plus many other timesaving, convenience and safety features.

BAZOOKA transfer augers have important differences at the drive end, like heavy duty thrust bearings; machined, cast iron sheaves, and easily adjusted motor mounts supported equally on all four corners.

BAZOOKA sweeps and unloading augers can make quick work of emptying out a bin. Portable types can be moved from one bin to another while permanent types are driven by powerheads located outside the bin.

BAZOOKA Grainclean'r is a rotary type scalper/cleaner with a built-in fines collector.

Apple stretcher receives registration

NORTH CHICAGO, Ill. - Promalin apple stretcher has received Federal registration for use on Red Delicious apples, according to the manufacturer, Abbott Laboratories.

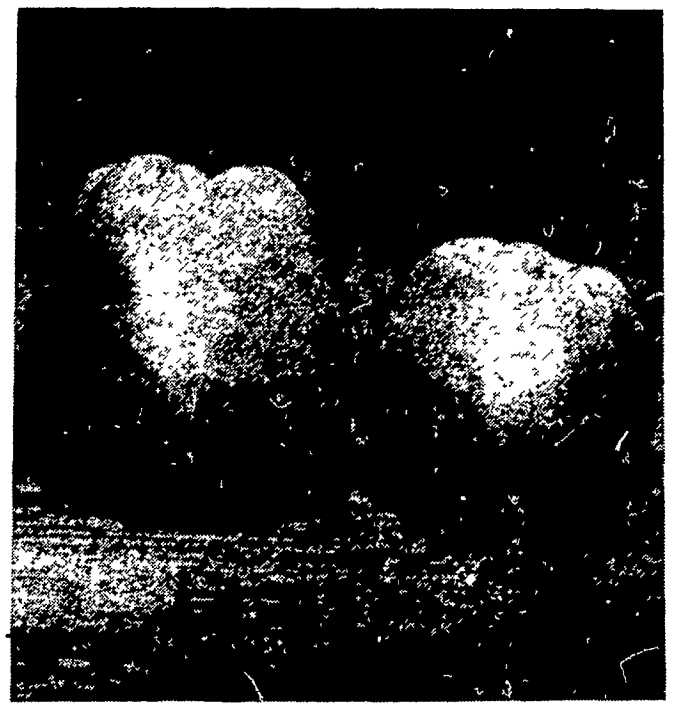
Promalin is a plant growth regulator containing two naturally occurring plant hormones which cause improved "typiness" in Red Delicious apples.

Commercial applications of Promalin throughout the country in two years of use under an Experimental Use Permit have shown that Promalin enhances elongation of Red Delicious apples, improves length to diameter ratios and increases calyx lobe development. Orchards treated with Promalin commonly produce fruit weighing up to 12 per cent more than those untreated, reports Abbott.

In many apple growing regions, high nighttime post-bloom temperatures and lack of adequate sunlight generally result in poor typiness. Promalin complements natural plant hormone production allowing trees to overcome these climatic conditions and produce the consumer-preferred "typey" shape.

The timing of Promalin application is the most important factor in producing desired results, according to Abbott. The period between full bloom and early petal fall is when flower parts are most receptive to Promalin treatments and capable of absorbing and transferring the hormones to the developing fruit.

The recommended rate of Promalin is one pint in 100 gallons of water which produces a 25 ppm spray concentration of ingredients. The spray solution should be applied at the rate of 100 to 200 gallons per acre as a fine mist, using a properly calibrated high pressure sprayer which will assure uniform coverage. Label restrictions and application guidelines should be followed closely to insure best results.



Red Delicious apples treated with Promalin result in improved length to diameter ratios and "typey" shape. Shorter untreated apples from control trees show flat shape typical of eastern grown Red Delicious apples.

Dairy marketing

good nutrition and dairy products."

At the request of milk marketers, "The Pleasin Season" a promotional effort for when schools are closed, has been formed.

This campaign will be initiated if the funds are available. It is oriented towards "kids and mon". Because the kids are home from school, it suggests that this is a good time to pick up extra milk. Consumers are encouraged to pick up butter for baking. "Perhaps the largest sales of butter for baking" is bought at this time Norton said. In Maryland, in a trail promotion period with this campaign, sales went up "12 per cent in egg nog and whipping cream with this promotion" Norton explained.

"We are here to sell dairy products, not just milk, but the full spectrum of dairy products" Norton emphasized as he outlined various branches in dairy product advertising.

Dairy Research Incorporated, or drinc, does a major share of industry product research. It is responsible for the development of new products and the processing of these new products.

Represented by three drops of milk is the United Dairy Industry. UDI, Norton explained, is responsible for the coordination and administration of drinc and UDA. There is an 18 member board composed of dairy farmers and, depending on the funding, these representatives meet four times a year to review the total promotion plan.

"The Dairy Council has highly complex program plans" Norton said. And, they will continue with the basic food groups in perhaps a soft sell way of getting nutrition through the school". But, Norton added, it is an education with the basics and also 51 per cent of the milk sold is for children.

In the area of food service Norton explained that as food service grows, milk share of the sales is inverse to the sales of food itself." Dairy products are out promoted by name brand sodas. Because of this, food service tends to think of milk as a "low profit syndrome". "We have developed the syndrome that when we sit down, our cup is automatically filled with coffee" Norton stated.

But why not have the waitress ask "would you like milk?"

"We feel we can position milk between the sizzle and the steak by adding flavoring" Norton said. The "Magic Cow" product, flavored milk between white milk and a milk shake, does just that.

Norton also detailed the dairy department manager's training program. "This program trains people who are running your grocery stores dairy department". The program emphasizes fully stocked, verticles displays, proper temperatures, lighting and storage. Norton added that a lot more training is still necessary. Many cases were designed for sales 30 years ago he stated. "The open door refrigeration is an expensive use of energy." Norton added that it was an "intolerable situation when milk isn't handled properly".

The set of goals for this seminar include increasing grocery store sales from 10 to 30 per cent. "In the most recent seminar, A & P had an increase of sales 12 per cent across the board" by initiating techniques taught in the program.

"Today, lifestyles are changing." The influence mothers give their children to drink milk is "rapidly disappearing". In the home "family meals are becoming a thing of the past". The beverage competition is growing and milk drinking patterns are changing. These are some of the reasons why the industry has chosen a target audience between the age of six and 34 or "the soft drink chooser".

The dairy industry's promotional arms will promote milk as the "beverage of choice for contemporary people". It is a drink that can be enjoyed in an active, fun situation. The programs will emphasize milk can be chosen

Farm Expo

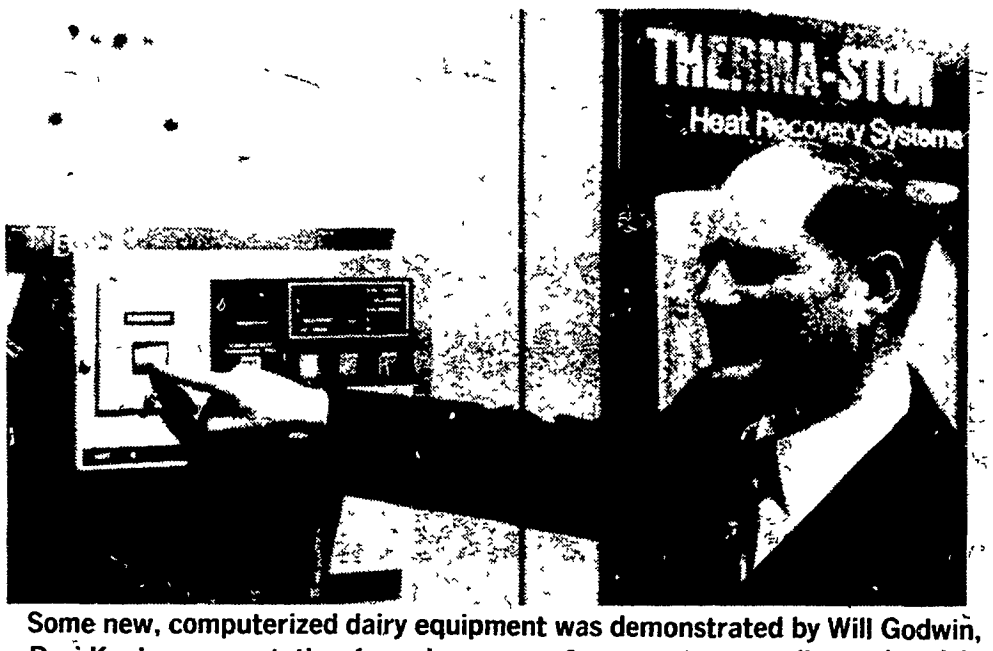
To companies such as Timken, makers of all kinds of bearings, the Pennsylvania Farm Machinery Exposition provided an excellent opportunity to get acquainted with farmers. They'll want to come back next year and believe that the Expo has a great future under the right leadership. Says Timken Sales Representative Ray Buckno: "We got our money's worth."



Some new, computerized dairy equipment was demonstrated by Will Godwin, a Dari-Kool representative from Lancaster County who was disappointed in Exposition attendance but pleased with the genuine interest of those who did come.

Ag economy and rural life to be discussed

HARRISBURG - Improving the agricultural economy and rural life in the Northeast will be the central issues facing the Northeast Agricultural Leadership Assembly (NALA), which convenes at the Cherry Hill Hyatt House in New Jersey, March 20-22.

Pennsylvania's State Agriculture Secretary Penrose Hallowell, a member of the Executive Board for the Assembly, today said that related policies, legislation and research will be discussed by some 400 government officials, agricultural scientists, economists and rural life specialists from the ten Northeastern states in attendance.

A series of draft recommendations for action by the Assembly has been prepared by 75 experts who have documented issues involving Northeast agriculture for committees. The areas of concern include government and finance, rural life, production, energy, land, marketing and appropriate technology.

Hallowell said that the major goals of the conference are "to raise governmental and public awareness of the issues facing agriculture in the Northeast, to recommend policies and legislation and stimulate research to improve agriculture and help establish a regional basis for coordinating these improvements."

Keynote speakers for the NALA conference will include Governor Brendan Byrne of New Jersey and Dr. Hardy Vogtmann, director of the Research Institute of Biological Husbandry, Oberwill, Switzerland. The NALA Conference Chairman is Frederick Winthrop, Jr.

LeHi pushing new advertising effort

By SALLY BAIR
Staff Correspondent

NEW HOLLAND — Optimism was the order of the day for members of the LanChester Local of the Lehigh Valley Cooperative at their district meeting held Thursday in New Holland, the last of seven such membership meetings.

An appeal to members to support an advertising effort to sell LeHi products and a new membership program were the main points of business with the cooperative reporting positive gains in their goal to regain a sound financial base.

Bill Stout

William Stout, head of the field department, urged members to sign forms requesting that the advertising funds currently being withheld within the Federal Order be transferred to an advertising fund at Lehigh Valley Co-op, allowing the Co-op to advertise their specific products. The seven cents per hundredweight is now going for "no-brand" advertising and promotion in Order Four.

Saying that the industry's pro-milk campaign has "backfired," Stout said, "Messages like 'milk's the one' won't motivate anyone to drink more milk." To be successful, he said, "you must tell the target audience to buy your product by name and give the reason why." He said present dairy advertising has not kept up with the changing American lifestyle, adding that the "Coke" people spent a lot of money and taught a generation that "Coke is the number one social drink."

He added, "The world has changed, the market has changed and the milk industry remains stagnant. It suffers from the lack of creativity. No brand milk advertising is not doing the job."

In 1960 the annual per capita consumption of milk far surpassed other drinks at 38 gallons. In 1978 milk fell behind soft drinks at 25 gallons per capita, and it is projected that by 1990 soft drinks will account for 50 gallons per capita, beer for 28 gallons and milk a mere 17½ gallons.

A Lehigh Advertising and Promotion Committee and the Board of Directors will control the proposed fund, and Stout called it "step one" in moving LeHi brand products into dominance over the next few years.

He noted that the fund will cause no additonal cost to the members, but will "constitute a sum large enough to create a significant impact for Lehi products." He urged one hundred per cent participation in the program.

John York, vice president for public relations, explained the new membership program developed by a committee of Lehigh Valley comfortably in public, it refreshes and energizes.

These themes will be "zeroed in on the primary targets using television spots". Advertising "where the people are" Norton said.

"The value of increased fluid milk sales more than paid for advertising. Researchers indicate it would be valuable to more than double the promotional efforts".

Horsepull, auction closes Expo

HARRISBURG - Pennsylvania's first Farm Machinery Exposition closed Saturday with an auction of used farm equipment, and State Agriculture Secretary Penrose Hallowell noted his pleasure at the success of this first time show.

"We were a little bit concerned with the crowd early in the show, but as time went by it became obvious that this show was what we billed it: a show for farmers. Fully 90 per cent of the visitors to the show were farmers, and all had a good chance to talk with the exhibitors who were in attendance," he said. "And a great deal of interest was generated at Saturday's auction. We were well pleased with the results of the show."

Saturday's auction had 149 pieces of used farm equipment on the block and active bidding brought a total of $58,391.75 for the day's sale.

The Friday night horse pull also proved to match to its billing as a national horse pull, as Kentucky teams captured both divisions while midwestern teams placed well. In the lightweight division, teams under 3200 pounds, first place went to Wesley Simpson of Lebanon, Kentucky. Robert Steel, of Bondville, Kentucky and Max Ledyard of Waldron, Michigan, placed second and third, respectively.

The top Pennsylvania entry, a team driven by Buck Dodge of Little Meadows, Susquehanna County, placed seventh in the lightweight division field of 18 finalists.

A team driven by B. C. Russellberg of Hawesville, Kentucky, took the heavyweight honors in the horse pull, as a couple of Ohio teams placed second and third. Second place went to Jeff Schlab of Baltic, Ohio, while third place was taken by Oakleaf Brothers of Tiffin, Ohio.

Campbell Brothers of West Sunbury, Butler County, led Pennsylvania entries in the heavyweight competition, placing tenth in a field of 15. The 1979 Farm Machinery Exposition horse pull featured some of the best teams east of the Mississippi, according to the participants.

Chickies Watershed Assn. to meet

MANHEIM - The Chickies Creek Watershed Association will hold its annual membership meeting on March 19, at the Manheim Community Building, beginning at 7:30 p.m. An update on the soil conservation study will be given at this time.

An election of directors will also be held. All with an interest in this group are urged to attend.

The Chickies Creek Watershed Association was started in 1976 by concerned citizens living within the watershed area. It resulted from urging by the Department of Environmental Resources for the people to take an active part in the development of a flood control program and one for the conservation of the resources of the watershed.

Bergland asks farmers to help pay for damage

WASHINGTON — Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland is asking farmers and their organizations to help pay repair costs for the extensive damage to the Mall in Washington.

Speaking to reporters on the Mall, Bergland said, "The Mall is our nation's front yard and it should be kept in as good condition as farmers keep their own front yards. The recent damage to the Mall during the farmers' demonstrations reflects badly on the image of farmers, even though the damage was caused by only a small number of farmers."

Robert Bergland

"I have received many phone calls and letters from farmers and farm organizations saying that they wanted to help restore the Mall. I have also received contributions from the general public wanting to help pay the costs of repairing the damages," Bergland said.

The secretary noted that he has no authority to solicit funds, but that he has conferred with the National Park Foundation and determined that this organization is the proper place for contributions to be sent.

"I am making a personal contribution to this repair effort and I hope that all farmers and their organizations from throughout the United States will do the same. I think this is appropriate and necessary to restore the credibility and the image of America's farmers," Secretary Bergland said.

Contributions for repairing the Mall will be accepted by check or money order sent to: The Mall Fund, National Park Foundation, Washington, D.C., 20240. All contributions are tax deductable.

The National Park Foundation, a non-profit organization associated with the National Park Service, will receive all contributions and give them to the National Park Service for the Mall repairs. Funds received over the estimated repair costs of $950,000 will be used for the continuing effort to maintain the Mall, visited by over 18 million people each year.

Co-op members. He said the program is designed to reward current Lehigh members as well as to attract new members, and to encourage production of milk when needed.

The new program will elminate the seven cents per hundredweight supplemental income deduction, but will continue a 10 cents per hundredweight deduction applied to the mortgage. It will also change the current membership dues from 8 cwt to 13 cwt.

York said member program benefits include a continuation of a five cwt quality bonus plus a 10 cwt bonus in February of this year. Lehigh will also provide a 70/30 base for new producer members until they build base and will pay a 30 cwt bonus on production above last year in the four base building months.

There will be a tax credit allocation of approximately .025 cwt, which will be allocated on a patronage basis and apply directly to tax in the past three years.

In figuring the new program, with the added benefits, York noted that Lehigh's dues will be less than 8 cwt for most members.

There is also a provision for a payment to members for milk destroyed due to a fire and up to 50 per cent of the value if the milk cannot be moved to a storm. A group disability program is being developed.

York said he is cautiously optimistic about the price of milk in the coming year, although he added that is is difficult to predict in these inflationary times.

"In attending the series of district meetings, he said, "I detected that the membership is impressed with the progress made this year and that the members are excited about that progress." He said he feels a growing strength of confidence in their cooperative by members. He urged members to consider their cooperative an important committment in their lives. "I urge you to think over more seriously your committment to the cooperative which markets your product which is your livelihood."

Bart Patton, controller for Lehigh, summarized the financial situation, saying that the cooperative ended the year with a net margin of $336,000, compared to last year's loss of $400,000. He said the loss of 200 members and the curtailment of the cheese division for several months caused loss of income which was offset to some degree with the membership's contribution of $540,000. Over $700,000 was paid on principal last year.

Alpheus Ruth, chairman of the board, strongly supported the adversiting program, adding that the taking of money from Order 4 will not be detrimental to the total promotional effort. "It will enhance fluid milk sold in Order 4, which will enhance the blend price, and will enhance the price we get for milk. It has been determined that we will get more out of it if we spend our own money."

Marvin B. Stoltzfus, Elverson R2, was elected director from the local after being nominated from the floor. Others nominated were Alfred Wanner, Narvon, and Mrs. Lillian Emery, Chester Springs.

Retiring Director John E. Kreider, announced that the board will meet monthly, with district meetings scheduled to follow the board meetings. He said this will allow members to be better informed and receive reports of the meetings. The meetings will be moved around the districts to allow maximum participation by members.

Lancaster County Extension Agent Glenn Shirk told the producers they should be concerned about the high cost of producing milk, and cautious about the high prices they are getting for milk. "It means a lot of dollars, and you should keep close guard on what you earn." He pointed out that the most profitable milk is from top production. "In this Spring rush don't neglect the cows."

Officers re-elected include, Clyde W. Martin, East Earl R1, chairman; Nick Tkaczuk, Elverson R2, vice-chairman; and Ray Geissinger, New Holland, R2.

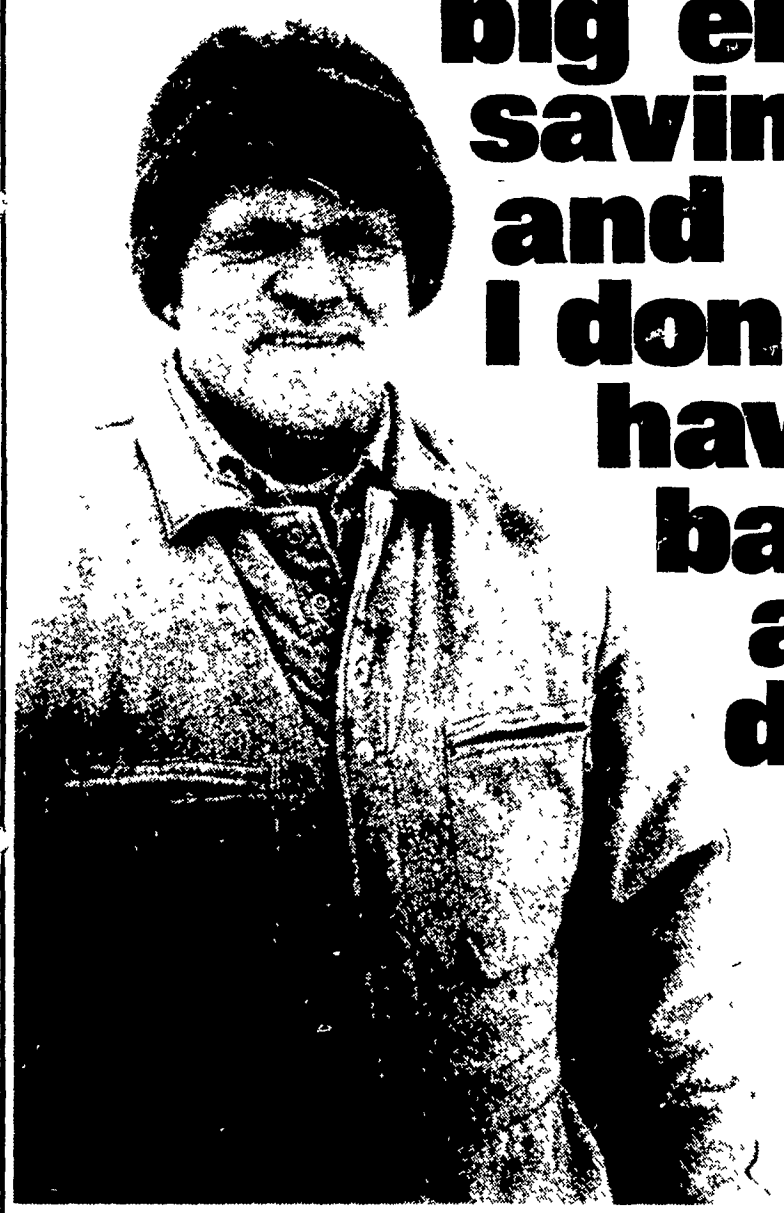
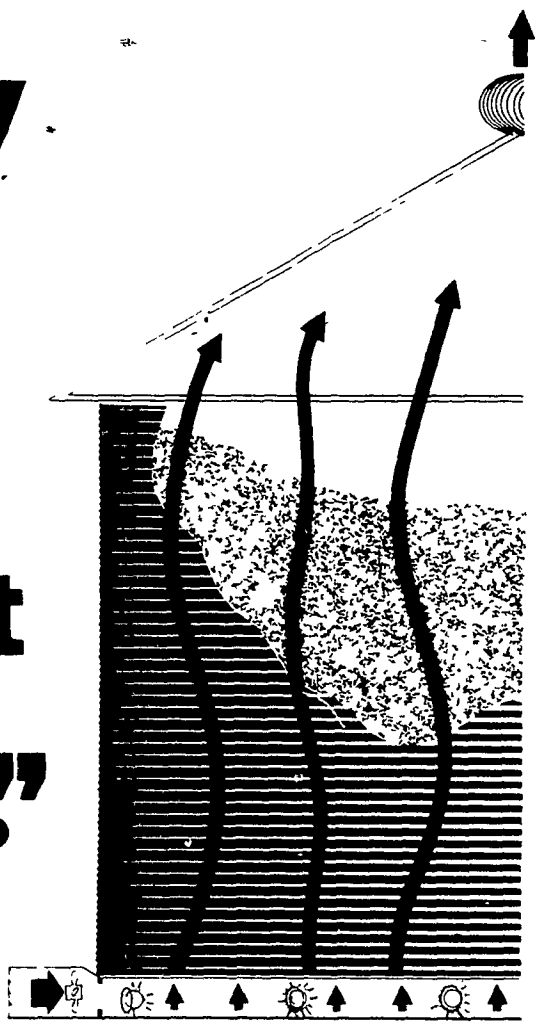
"Harvestall Chillcuring works.

I get big energy savings and I don't have to babysit a dryer."





DAN KOLB, Spring City, Pa.

This is my third year with the Harvestall system, and I've found it to be ideal for my setup. I've harvested corn at 30% moisture with no problem. I fill the bin to about 3 feet, and in about 4 or 5 days moisture is down enough so that then I can fill on top of that. The thing I really like about the Harvestall is that I don't have to babysit a dryer. I can fill it and forget it. Plus there are really no major moving parts to wear out or break down.

I like the economy too. I can cure down 26% to 30% corn for around 6¢ to 8¢ a bushel. 24%-25% would run considerably less.

The way the Harvestall works is simple and effective. As for those who are skeptical about the Harvestall system, it's like the bumble bee: according to scientists he's not supposed to be able to fly. But he's too dumb to know it so he flies anyway. So regardless of what anyone says, the Harvestall system works. It works for me and I'm happy with it. I do recommend the Harvestall for its economy and for its considerable savings on energy.

The Harvestall Chillcuring System

It's simple. When grain comes out of the field it's a living seed. So instead of destroying the seed with high heat, moisture is removed with natural air ventilation. The grain keeps all its feed value; there is less shrinkage than with heat drying because only moisture is removed, not dry matter. You'll never see white dust in chillcured corn. You actually save half of what you're used to losing in heat shrink.

There's no oil or gas to buy. Natural air carries away heat and moisture as the corn releases it.

Harvestall Chillcuring is a "back-to-basics" system that just simply makes good sense. Find out more about it.

Award winners named at Manheim FFA banquet

By KENDACE BORRY

MANHEIM — Members of the Manheim Central FFA met for their annual banquet last Friday night to honor their members for their accomplishments over the past year.

Top award winner was Clyde Peters, Manheim R6, the president of the club last year. He received the Lancaster County Bankers' Award, a foundation award for his poultry production, and a second place award in the state project book evaluation. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Peters, he was also honored for chapter scholarship and leadership.

Peters was again honored for having won the Keystone Farmer Degree, along with J. Kevin Rohrer, who was recognized for having received the American Farmer Degree, the highest FFA award given.

Chapter vice president, Steve Hershey, was given an award for chapter scholarship and leadership. The Manheim R6 youth also received a foundation award for dairy production and two awards for project evaluation, a county level silver, and a bronze level state. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hershey, he too had received the Keystone Farmer Degree this year.

the small attendance, but he's interested nonetheless in giving it another try next year. "There was low attendance, but those who came offered very good potential," said Ray Shenk, a Dari-Kool, Bou-Matic dealer from Lititz. "There has been plenty of time to talk," said Godwin.

"One man told me that he hadn't been to the Farm Show in seven years because of the crowds and stale air, but he came to this show and enjoyed it," Godwin said.

Realtor Richard Brandt had a booth at the Machinery Expo because he wanted a chance to participate in the mainstream of Pennsylvania agriculture and chat with farmers. He can't get into the January Farm Show, so the new show was just the ticket for him. "This gives us a chance to see things at more of a relaxed pace," he began, echoing the comment of nearly everyone there that the crowds were thin. He liked it that way, stating that people don't have time to talk at the Farm Show.

"A lot of the farmers I talked to said they really enjoyed it," Brandt continued. As for the dealers who were represented at the show, Brandt observed that there was considerable grumbling at first because of the low attendance. But when they got to their motel rooms in the evening and analyzed the situation, they found they had found real good prospects.

"Definitely!" said William Shirk without a moment's hesitation when he was asked whether the Expo was worthwhile. He noted that he had at least twice as many inquiries about his sythetic lubricants than he anticipted. He thought the small crowds were helpful because people had time to stop and talk.

A Centre County farmer and Patz dealer, Bill Lucas, thought the show was "great."

"It was mostly farmers here and that's who we want to talk to," he said in a convincing tone. Like all of the other exhibitors that

Richard Brandt, realtor, appreciated the Machinery Exposition because it went about at a more relaxed pace than the big Farm Show in January. "We had a chance to talk - people are too busy to talk at the Farm Show," he said.

[illegible] interviewed by caster Farming, he said he wanted to come back.

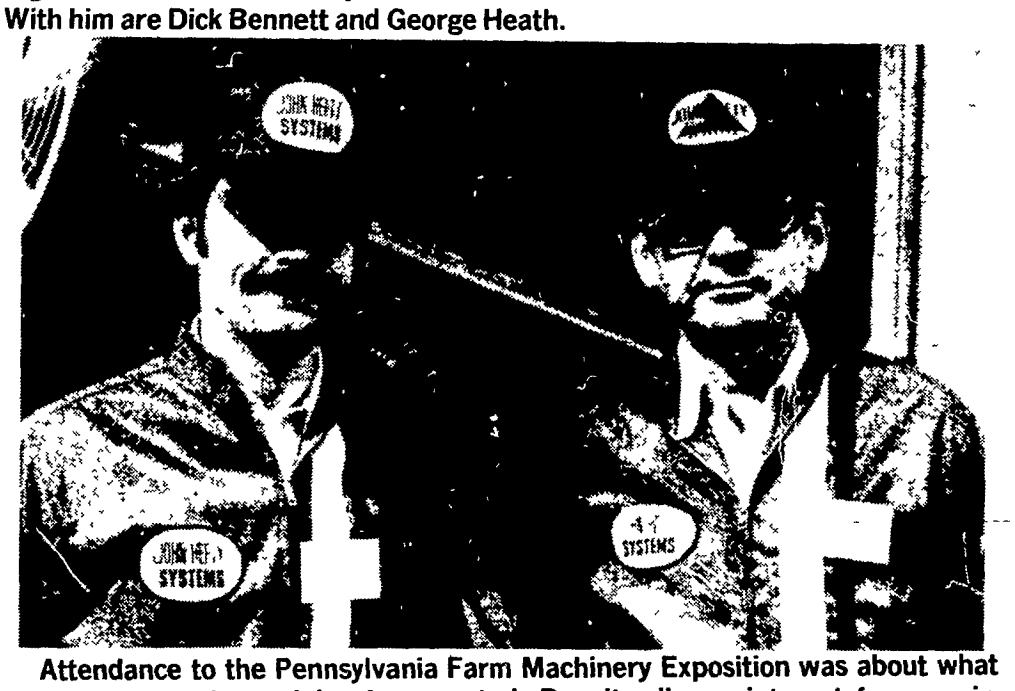
George Heath and Dick Pennett, also Patz Company representatives, agreed with Lucas. They said they would have liked to have seen more visitors, but were pleased with those who did come because they came to inspect, inquire, and talk.

John Hefty, a distributor of grain handling systems from Watsontown, figured the Expo should get off the ground in a couple of years with the proper amount of advertising. Although he believes this first try will represent a financial loss for him, he felt the attendance was good considering it was so poorly publicized. "The crowd for this first year was about what I expected ... and if we got this much without advertising, it's pretty good," he said. "We'll be here again next year," he assured. "Some farmers prefer a show during this time of year," he concluded.

Three men from Royster Fertilizer Company agreed that the Expo was a good thing. "We feel that we talked to as many people here as we would have at the Farm Show," said Don Lohr. "Less people, but the kind who were interested ... a higher percentage of ag oriented people," added Harold Brecht. "A little more promotion and advertising and this show could grow into a big thing in the next two, three, or five years," offered Dave Borsoi. "We like the 3-day show. Anybody that wants to come can come. The weather is better in March than it is in January. We have prospects

(Turn to Page 36)

Patz Company representatives were in agreement that the Pennsylvania Farm Equipment Exposition was a good thing. Said Bill Lucas, left, "I think it was a great show - it was mostly farmers here and that's who we want to talk to." With him are Dick Bennett and George Heath.



Attendance to the Pennsylvania Farm Machinery Exposition was about what John Hefty and son John Jr. expected. Despite disappointment from an investment point of view, they believe the show has potential and they'll want to come back next year.

for sales in our pockets," he said.

Brecht mentioned that he was surprised to have people come in from as far away as Canada.

"The people who came wanted to talk business," said Russell Darkes Jr. of Penn-Jersey Harvestore, New Holland. "We have a nice stack of registration cards ... good interest." Agreeing with him strongly was Charles Werner of Pennsylvania Harvestore Systems, Dillsburg. "It was almost perfect in every respect. We had a nice flow of people and the registrations were as good as at the Farm Show. I'd really like to see'em keep it going," he exclaimed. The fact that the exhibit hall wasn't crowded was beneficial, he added.

Some of the exhibitors had suggestions for improvements - such as combining a livestock or dairy show with it. Some thought the show could have been better organized. For example, there was nothing going on in some portions of the Farm Show Complex, and people who were at one end didn't know that activities were taking place elsewhere because of the "nothingness" between the two areas.

Cliff Halloway, a Lancaster County dairyman and dealer for Vermeer Manufacturing Company, said he got a lot of leads at the Expo, despite the small attendance figures. "I would come back, I'd like to support it," he said. "Having it for just one year wouldn't be a fair trial," commented his son, Jim.

Over at the NAPA display, a spokesman was delighted at the new ground he was breaking with the farm population. Noting that NAPA has a vast variety of products for farmers, he said people were astounded to find this out. "Everybody just thinks NAPA is auto parts, but it's not," he said. On display were an assortment of goods ranging from electric fencers to boots and shovels to tools.

"We feel we got our money's worth because of the exposure. Farmers didn't know we had agricultural parts and implements. We definitely plan on coming back," said Ray Buckno of the Timker Bearing Company, which participated in the NAPA display.

Cattle seminar rescheduled

NEW WINDSOR, Md. – The Maryland Cattlemen's Association has rescheduled their Winter Seminar and Annual Meeting for Monday, March 26, 1979. Snow forced the cancellation of the February 20 date. All interested beef producers are invited to attend this mid day event at the Brethren Service Center, here.

Program time and content will remain the same. Registration begins at 9:30 a.m., costs $5.00 per person and includes lunch and a coffee break. The theme for this year's seminar is breeding programs. Beginning at approximately 2:30 p.m., the Maryland Cattlemen's Association will hold a brief meeting that will include the election of officers.

but Agway research has shown that their nutrient requirements may vary significantly Agway can now offer feeding programs tailored to many commercial layer strains.

It has been well established that meat birds have different nutrient requirements than layers * Now, Agway research has gone a step farther It has demonstrated that different strains of the same breed of commercial layers have different nutrient requirements The trials show that production can be improved with a feeding program that's tailored to the needs of a particular strain

When three commercial strains of the same breed were tested on two Agway feeding programs, here's what happened

PERCENT HEN-DAY PRODUCTION DURING A 392-DAY LAYING TRIAL

Agway Feeding Program	Same Breed, Commercial Strain
	A	B	C
I	67 3	65 5	72 3
II	71 5	70 7	70 0

A little pencil work makes it apparent that the difference in total production in one of today's large commercial houses can add up to thousands of dozens of eggs during the laying period of a given strain

Agway research is continuing to develop feeding programs that provide, without excesses, the nutrients your favorite strain needs for optimum production Such research will help you, as a commercial producer, bring more eggs to market at a cost that will provide you a greater return

If you would like to know more about the possibilities of increased production through a tailored Agway feeding program, contact your Agway Poultry Enterprise Serviceperson As a first step, call your local Agway store

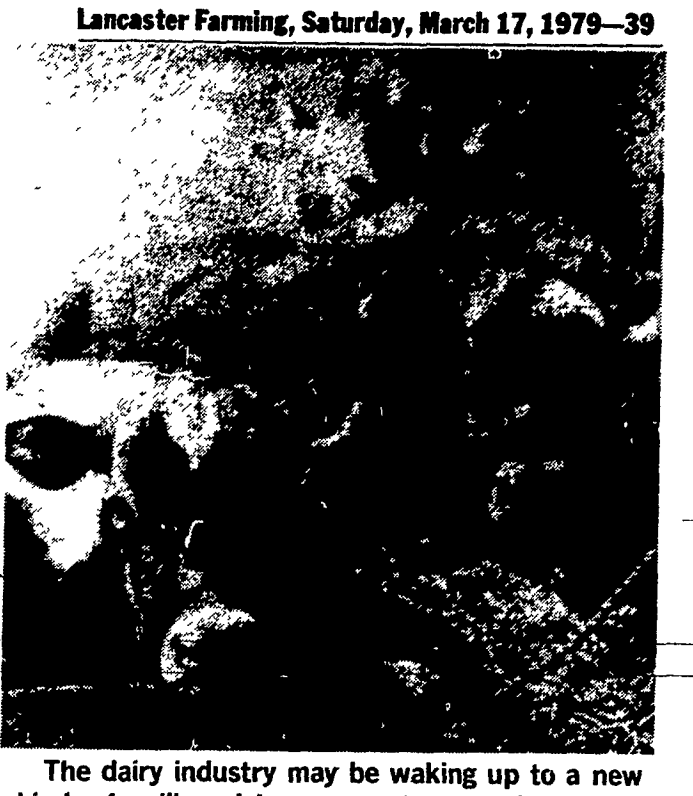
Special dairy meeting will highlight protein pricing

VIRGINVILLE – Calvin Covington from Columbus, Ohio, will speak March 20 on protein pricing and how the dairies and farmers can best utilize a new method of pricing milk.

This meeting is to be held Tuesday at the Virginville Fire House, (Route 143), Virginville, at 8.00 P.M. Refreshments will be served. The meeting is sponsored by Program Equity and Longmeadows Farm of Hamburg. All dairy farmers, regardless of milk company affiliation, are invited to the discussion.

To arrive at Virginville, follow Route 22 (or I-78) to the Lenhartsville Exit



The dairy industry may be waking up to a new kind of milk pricing concept, according to a speaker who will address Protein Pricing at a special Berks County dairy meeting. Such a formula could be advantageous to dairy farmers, compared to present pricing standards.

Beekeepers to meet

LANCASTER — The Lancaster County Beekeepers Association will hold their first meeting of the year on March 26. It will be held at the Farm and Home Center, here. The speaker will be Weaver Martin, whose topic is Spring management. Also on the program is Barbara Graybill of Lititz, the 1979 Pennsylvania Honey Queen. She will show slides.

Favorable farm future forecasted

NEW OXFORD — A shortage of beef is responsible for rising prices to cattle feeders but has also bolstered the farm market for poultry and eggs as well as dairy products. This was the consensus of farmers and a marketing specialist from The Pennsylvania State University when they considered the outlook for agricultural commodities on March 6 at New Oxford Middle School.

Co-sponsored by the Young Farmer Chapters and the Cooperative Extension Service, the meeting was called to order at 8 p.m. by Thomas E. Piper, Adams County Extension director who introduced the program.

Laurence L. Yager, area marketing agent for the Extension Service, served as moderator of the farmer panel of six local farmers representing swine, beef, poultry, grain, dairy and fruit.

"Hog prices look favorable into December, 1979, influenced by the relative shortage of beef" said Charles Griest, Abbottstown R1. He expressed concern that new construction indicates considerable expansion in coming years.

"Feed shortages and low prices caused dispersement of beef cow herds. This coupled a growing demand for hamburger by fast food chains has resulted in rising beef prices," said Darrel Hoffman. He predicts that beef prices will remain favorable throughout the coming year.

"Poultry is the fastest growing agricultural commodity in Adams County," said Mark Widerman, of New Oxford R2. He listed production of 2½ million turkeys, 5 million broilers and 620,000 laying hens per year. The latter includes 320,000 layers on the newest poultry farm in the county. Adams County has a 5 cents per dozen advantage over southern producers because of a close proximity to markets. The poultry industry looks good in 1979, concluded Widerman.

Turning to feed grains, Ted Rhodes said that soybean oil meal is the major concern. Forecasts indicate 1979 may be a near copy of 1978 with prices expected to be little changed. Equipment and energy costs will drive farmers costs higher. Hay markets remain depressed due to heavy supplies produced in 1978.

Attractive cull cow prices have helped dairy farmers avoid serious overproduction according to Alan Zepp. Some dairy products have been purchased by the government's Commodity Credit Corporation since December 1, 1978. "We are concerned that trade negotiations now underway may result in more imports to suppress prices" concluded Zepp.

"Higher land values have prompted fruitgrowers to intensify orchard plantings on dwarfing rootstocks which come into bearing at a much younger life" said Stuart Lucabaugh, of Hanover R4. He pointed to changes in consumer buying habits with individuals purchasing less and more customers required to move the same volume. With farm costs rising, we must have higher returns for farm commodities if we are to remain in business. He suggested that computerized farm record programs as offered by California banks will prove helpful to farmers.

"Inflation at a 9 per cent rate created strong consumer demand" says Louis Moore, Extension agricultural economist from the Pennsylvania State University. He discussed the 1979 outlook for farm commodities. He predicted a further move to meat substitute and more chicken and turkey for the table as a combined 10 per cent increase in production is expected. With the dollar worth half what it was in 1967, it could be worse, said Moore.

Our imports of oil are costing us $50 billion per year, said Moore. Although we have greatly expanded agricultural exports, it isn't possible to make up this deficit. Export sales of $6½ billion in 1970 have climbed to $27 billion in 1978.

We've underestimated the American farmer's ability to produce grain said Moore, who pointed to a record corn crop in 1978 which exceeded the record crop in 1975 by 25 per cent. Summarizing the feed grain outlook, Moore predicts abundant supplies, reasonable prices, excellent demand but too much carry over.

A 16 per cent decline in total cattle numbers since 1975 represents the largest cyclical decline on record, said Moore. Another 6 per cent is in prospect in 1979, all in response to low prices which discouraged producers in the mid-1970's. Higher prices for beef will pull agriculture through in 1979 as it supports pork, poultry and processed dairy products.

Moore expects strong demand for milk and dairy products, a 10 to 11 per cent increase in supplies of broilers and turkeys and a strong demand for eggs. The grain sector will suffer again in 1979, said Moore. He concluded by saying that "the health of the economy will be the thing to watch in 1979".

Upon conclusion of the program, Donald Warne, vocational agriculture teacher at New Oxford High School, introduced the presidents of the Adams County Young Farmer Chapters and the vocational agriculture teachers from the county high schools. Refreshments were served by the New Oxford Young Farmers.

Good year predicted for dairymen

By DIETER KRIEG

LANDISBURG — It should be a good year for dairymen - an excellent year - says Joe Mathis, economist for Eastern Milk Producers Cooperative. Speaking here last week to an estimated 60 central Pennsylvania dairymen, Mathis said that dairy product inventories are low and prices are already moving up in anticipation of the higher support levels which go into effect April 1.

The economist noted that milk production slowed down last year despite favorable prices and reasonable feed costs. He expects production to pick up somewhat this year, although the increase would not be significant. Fluid milk sales are expected to stay relatively stable, but cheese consumption will like continue to soar, thus fueling further price increases for milk.

Cheddar cheese prices, Mathis noted, are up 18½ cents per pound over a year ago, and 12½ cents above the current support price.

Joe Mathis

The boom or bust in the dairy business of 1979 will depend considerably on what happens to the rest of the economy during the year, Mathis went on. An inflation rate of 10.8 per cent is worrisome, he commented, adding that it gives rise to concern over what the government is capable of doing. Although he personally disfavors further involvement or controls by the government, he said mandatory controls could be implemented.

Aside from cheese consumption throttling the demand for milk, low government purhases have also been beneficial to dairymen, Mathis noted that the Commodity Credit Corporation purchased 148 million pounds of dairy products in 1977, compared to 40 million pounds last year. The decrease has been reflected in more favorable milk prices on the farm.

In making his dairy forecast for 1979, Mathis takes five specific projections into account. First, he believes that the support price for manufacturing grade milk will increase from $9.64 to $10.31 on April 1, based on 80 per cent parity. Changes in the Consumer Price Index could move that figure up even higher.

Mathis calculates that U.S. milk production, down 0.6 per cent in 1978 (122.3 billion pounds) will recover about 1 per cent this year and move up to 122.5 billion pounds. "Sharply higher milk prices, with more moderate increses in concentrate feed prices will encourage higher feeding rates and production per cow and slower declines in cow numbers," he said. Cull cow prices will continue at or slightly above 1978 high levels, he added.

Commercial use of dairy products will rise slightly above the 119 billion pounds expected for 1978. Total commercial use in 1978 was up more than three per cent from the 1977 level, he said.

Rounding out his predictions, Mathis said relatively low commercial stocks of dairy products at the beginning of this year, combined with continued strength in commercial demand, will keep prices above the support level, at least into the seasonal flush in milk production. Milk supplies in Order 2 will increase by about 2.4 per cent this year to 9.9 billion pounds and Class I sales within the Order are projected to rise by 1.2 per cent.

Trade talks near end

GENEVA, Switzerland — U.S. trade negotiators are nearing the end of trade talks taking place here and an increase of cheese imports to the United States is expected. Their international trade package will soon be sent to Congress for approval.

The increase in chesse imports is to be 67 million pounds over the 1977 level, bringing the total to 276.4 million pounds. It's explained that most of the cheese imports are varieties which are not produced in the United States. Also, subsidized foreign cheeses will not be sold under domestic prices.

With the trade agreement, many foreign cheeses will come under quota which had been imported under non-quota categories and had accounted for three-fourths of increased cheese imports last year.

According to Hollis Hatfield, an expert on dairy affairs with the American Farm Bureau Federation, cheese imports would go beyond the quota levels if the new trade agreements don't go into effect.

Extension committee

representatives of county Extension executive committees who serve in an advisory capacity to local Extension programs.

PCCEA functions primarily to provide guidance and advice to The Pennsylvania State University so that the Extension Service will function most effectively to improve the quality of life of Pennsylvanians.

At the legislative banquet, an Extension executive committee member, a state senator, a member of the House of Representatives, and a vice president at The Pennsylvania State University made presentations.

Speakers were Carroll Klingensmith, executive committee member from Armstrong County; Reno Thomas, representative from the 85th District comprising Snyder and Union counties, chairman of the House agricultural committee; Patrick Stapleton, senator for the 41st District comprising Clarion, Jefferson, Armstrong, and Indiana counties, chairman of the Senate agricultural committee; Dr. Stanley Ikenberry, senior vice president for administration at Penn State; and Penrose Hallowell, Secretary of Agriculture, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

While in Harrisburg, the Extension executive committee members also met informally with the legislators in their offices, discussing Extension's budget and adminstrative concerns.

Product protection stressed

WASHINGTON — The Carter Administration has made the Farm Production Protection Act its top priority farm legislation for this session of Congress. The bill would combine insurance programs of the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation, federal farm disaster indemnity and other payment programs, and subsidized interest portions of emergency loans made by the Farmers Home Administration and Small Business Administration.

After consolidation, the Commodity Credit Corporation would be responsible for the new program and FCIC would be dissolved. Coverage would be offered on 18 crops at first, with later extension to cover all farm products.

Reorganization of USDA opposed

WASHINGTON, D.C. — U.S. Senator Herman E. Talmadge (D-Ga.), chariman of the Senate Committee on Agriculture, Nutrition, and Forestry, recently signaled an all-out fight against President Carter's plan to reorganize the U.S. Department of Agriculture, terming the proposal "a classic case of bureaucratic box-shuffling."

Talmadge branded the President's proposal to remove the U.S. Forest Service and the Rural Development Business and Industrial Loan program from USDA "a flagrant example of false economy."

Under the presidential reorganization plan announced March 1, the Forest Service, largest component agency in USDA, would be transferred to an expanded Department of Interior. The Business and Industrial Loan program, now administered by the Farmers Home Administration of USDA, would be placed under the Department of Commerce.

The proposal to shift the Forest Service to Interior will take effect unless vetoed in 60 days by either the Senate or the House. Transfer of the Business and Industrial Loan program will be proposed as part of legislation to reauthorize the Economic Development Administration of the Commerce Department.

In a statement commenting on the reorganization proposal, Talmadge said:

"I remain steadfastly opposed to the President's plan to reorganize the Federal govenment that proposes to remove the U.S. Forest Service and the Rural Development business and Industrial Loan program from the Department of Agriculture.

"This is a classic case of bureaucratic box-shuffling by naive planners, academic theorists, and other assorted dreamers. The proposal to consign two of Agriculture's well established, solid and best-run activities to a new bureaucratic jungle flies in the face of every proven concept of government efficiency and is a flagrant example of false economy. And for this needless exercise in chart-drawing, the taxpayers are expected to shell out some $6 million.

"I intend to oppose this latest attempt to dismantle the Department of Agriculture with all the vigor I possess. I call on all friends of agriculture to do likewise. We have defeated past efforts to fracture and fragment this essential component of the Federal government, which is vitally concerned with the food, nutrition and resource needs of the Nation. By joining forces, we can do so again."

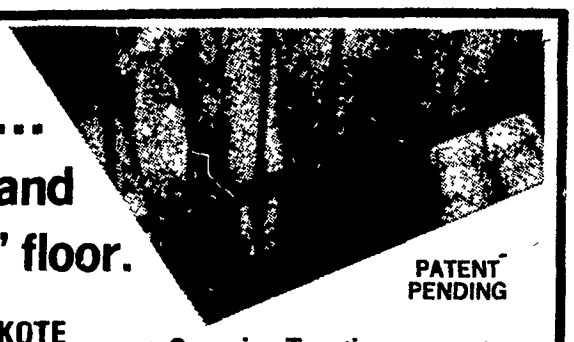
Tenderfoot...™
the Tough, Tested and Proven "pig-saver" floor.


PATENT PENDING

PERMA-BOND* KOMFY-KOTE CONSTRUCTION

A tough acid-resistant plastisol compound permanently bonded to a rugged steel mesh
An exclusive bonding process developed by Tenderfoot

- Superior Traction prevents injuries and abrasions.
- Cushioned comfort reduces stress.
- Self-cleaning. No holes or crevices to harbor bacteria.

HOW LONG WILL THEY LAST?

First produced in 1975, Tenderfoot was tested in farrowing pens for 1½ years before being marketed These original floors have been in constant use ever since WITH NO APPRECIABLE WEAR! Today's Tenderfoot floors have 6 advantages over the original pieces

1. 3 times more coating
2. Tougher vinyl coating
3. Extra-strength steel.
4. Treated to resist bacteria & fungi growth
5. Improved Perma-Bond processing.
6. Strict quality control

Constant research development and quality control continues at the Tenderfoot factory and at the nearby 650-sow operation where the original 1975 Tenderfoot floors are still going strong

How long will a Tenderfoot last? No one knows The very first ones produced have withstood heavy use since 1975 with no appreciable wear. The floors produced today are 6 ways better than the first ones On the basis of these facts it seems safe to say that any concern over the durability of Tenderfoot flooring is unnecessary.

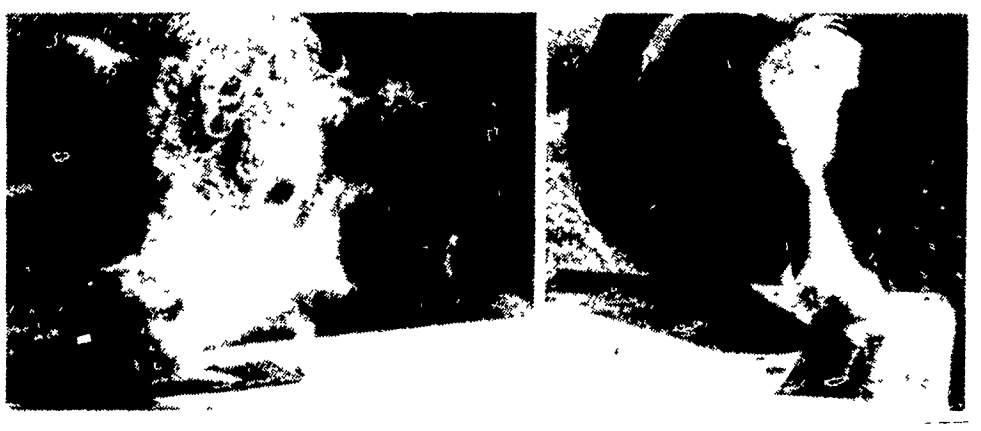
All Liquid Supplements Are Not Created Equal



Grazing corn or milo stubble this winter? Mol-Mix/LPS® is the quality liquid supplement that stays in suspension and won't freeze or become too thick even in the coldest temperatures. It supplies the energy and protein missing in winter grazing as well as provides the vitamins and minerals your cattle need for a balanced diet

For large, growthy replacement heifers and to prepare dry cows for their next lactation Mol-Mix/LPS® liquid supplements provide a power-packed combination of essential nutrients and extra performance-proven quality ingredients. And you can feed it in free-choice lick wheel feeders for minimum labor.

For winter pastures, Mol-Mix/LPS® is the special formulation to provide the minimum daily requirements as well as extra quality ingredients which make up for the deficiencies in low-quality roughages. And it won't freeze or get too thick even in the coldest temperatures.

Dairymen around the country have discovered a big difference in their milk production by switching to Mol-Mix/LPS® liquid supplements. The reason: performance-proven quality ingredients like condensed fermented corn extractives and phosphoric acid, the very ingredients many supplements lack!

- COW MATS PROVIDE GREATER COW COMFORT. Here's the biggest reason for you to consider the use of cow mats. Farmer after farmer has testified that cow mats have extended the life and production of their cows. Cows that became stiff or lame have shown remarkable recoveries on mats. We believe greater cow comfort means more production and we know from experience that cows given a choice will prefer our mats over concrete every time. Try a few mats and let your cows prove it for you.
- COW MATS SLASH BEDDING REQUIREMENTS. Like thousands of other farmers, you can cut your bedding use by 80% or more, and your cows will still enjoy greater comfort.
- COW MATS SAVE TIME AND LABOR. By reducing the amount of bedding used, you'll automatically save time and labor used in the handling, storage and distribution, plus have more time for management.
- COW MATS REDUCE COW INJURIES. The cushion comfort provided by cow mats protects against most udder and leg injuries (or swollen hocks) found with cows that are bedded on concrete.
- COW MATS EASILY PAY FOR THEMSELVES. If you have to purchase part or all of your bedding, cow mats can pay for themselves in as little as one year. Considering the other advantages, cow mats are a good investment that will continue to pay off year after year.
- COW MATS ARE EASILY INSTALLED. Fast, simple installation in new or existing free stall, tie stall, stanchion type barns. Exclusive manufacturing process produces a non-porous mat that won't absorb liquids. Flat, non-ribbed surface is easy to clean.

START SAVING... THIS YEAR AND EVERY YEAR

Put cow mats to work for you this spring — see how they'll start immediately to save you time, labor and money while providing greater cow comfort. Year in and year out you'll save as your cow mats pay for themselves over and over.

COW MATS
Put "COW PASTURE COMFORT" in your barn

- Textured non-skid surface
- Greater resiliency, greater comfort
- Economical — built for long life
- Easy to install, easy to clean
- Protects against injuries and swollen leg problems

In 1776, nearly every American was a farmer. Today, only one American in seventy, yet we are the greatest food producing nation on earth.

One-fourth of everyone who ever lived is alive today. Farmers must feed this hungry world.

Today's farmers are made of the same pride, grit and independence that helped our forefathers mold this remarkable country.

And we need to continue to develop new generations of agriculturalists prepared to lead, feed and succeed.

Like the farmer who plants in hope and cultivates in faith, we are as optimistic about America's agricultural future as we are proud of her past.

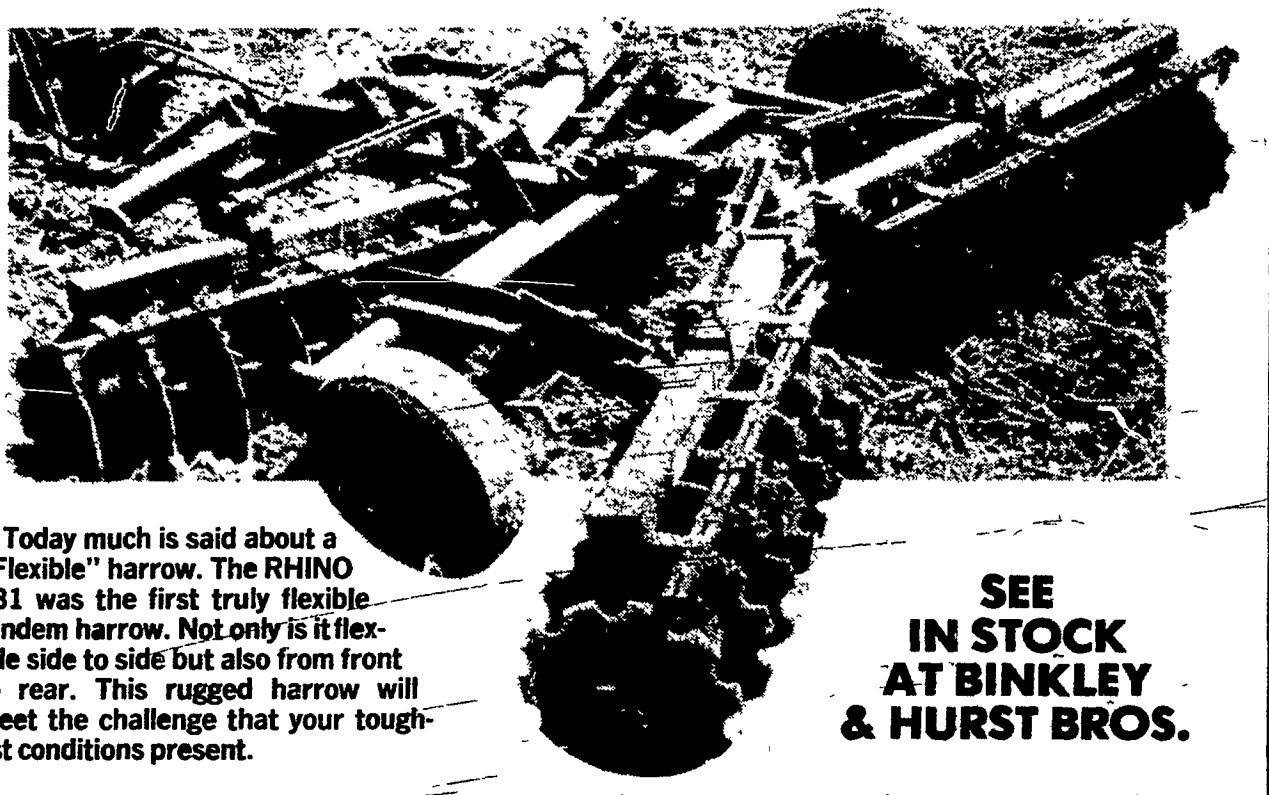
RHINO 131 TANDEM HARROW



Today much is said about a "Flexible" harrow. The RHINO 131 was the first truly flexible tandem harrow. Not only is it flexible side to side but also from front to rear. This rugged harrow will meet the challenge that your toughest conditions present.

SEE IN STOCK AT BINKLEY & HURST BROS.

Hard-to-plow soils, heavy stalks, stubble and sticky rice levee lands are no match for the RHINO 131. It will disc, pulverize, mix and aerate the soil to protect against packing in heavy rains . . . and add profits to your pocket by producing better yields.

Built-in flexibility assures longer life and lower maintenance cost, while helping you produce a profit.

Turn a RHINO 131 loose in your field and you'll know you own the best.

WHY NOT ORDER YOUR

HOMESTEAD NOTES

He grows his plants indoors

Donald Pratt examines some of the lilies used for buds in one of the old glass houses. The greenhouse is used for high-light crops.

By SUSAN KAUFFMAN
Staff Writer

With forecast of higher petroleum prices, the nation's businessmen, agricultural and industrial alike, have looked for more ways to save fuel. Operating with more and more fuel efficiency has been a major concern for greenhouse owners for a long time. Donald Pratt of the Avondale area of Chester County talked about operating greenhouses in the light of rising fuel costs.

Pratt's Greenhouses have been open to the public for many years for both walk-in retail sales and for the Chester County Pennsylvania Farmers Association tours. Over the years since the family owned the operation, dating back to 1931, many technical innovations have been put into practice with changes coming quickly after the energy crisis a few years ago, according to Pratt.

Potted and hanging plants share the sun. Note that the cement carnation benches have been cut to make north-south aisle.

On the thirteen acre site Pratt owns in New Garden Township, southeast of Toughkenamon, eight greenhouses, constructed from many kinds of building materials, cover 26,500 square feet.

Pratt took the time to give a guided tour of the greenhouses as they now exist and to explain the changes in greenhouse construction and renovation over the last half century.

Although Pratt's now handles a primarily wholesale foliage and flowering potted plants and vegetable and flower garden plant pack business, for many years his operation was a carnation growing enterprise. The first greenhouse was constructed on the site in the early 1920's, Pratt surmised. His father bought the business in 1931. This first house was built with redwood lumber and glass and measures 50 by 100 feet. It was equipped with cement planting benches which look like four-foot wide cement troughs which run the length of the house.

Besides the obvious drawback of having to replace the glass which gets broken from time to time, much in this house has to be painted. The old pipes used to transfer heat, as well as the wooden rafters and sashes between all the glass require many hours of painting.

After Pratt's switched to plants for potting and planting rather than carnations for cutting, the cement benches which run east and west down the length of the house were cut out in sections to form north-to south aisles instead. Pratt explained that hanging plants over the newly directed aisles will not shade the pots placed on the benches between the aisles. Now, Easter Lilies and other holiday plants are positioned in this large glass house to get as much sunshine as possible.

The largest single house, measuring 40 by 170 feet, was also built with glass. However, cypress wood was used instead of redwood. In addition to being a more durable lumber, the cypress also is thinner lumber throughout, blocking less sun than the older greenhouse. Although the grade for the roof of a glass house is the same, 26 degrees, Pratt pointed out the advantage of having smaller bars of wood across the top of the cyprus house and the increased light available. The cyprus and glass house is used all year round for the high-light crops such as geraniums, marigolds and impatiens presently growing there. Foliage plants in general require less light and are grown in other houses at Pratt's.

The third glass house Pratt built from aluminum and glass. It is the smallest of the glass houses measuring 30 by 95 feet. Recalling the building process with humor in hindsight, Donald Pratt said that while building he got nothing done buy trying to figure out which piece went were.

Originally built for the highlight carnation needs, this aluminum and glass house now is shaded by a black screen called saran cloth to lower the light level for foliage plants. These plants are grown in this particular house because it is close to the loading area, thus cutting down on handling labor.

Three years after building the glass and aluminum house, Pratts raised their first plastic house. A small house measuring 16 by 95 feet, it is the smallest of the eight. In 1958, a single layer of plastic was in order. After the energy crisis in the early 1970's however, Donald Pratt explained that a double layer of plastic was being used in building greenhouses. In 1974, Pratts added the double layer to this house.

This house is now used for propogation, starting seedlings and transplanting.

In 1968 Pratt decided to build a fiberglass house rather than one from glass or plastic because fiberglass was supposed to last for twenty years, be less expensive than glass and need not be replaced as is the case with all plastic houses. This house is one of the larger ones measuring 20 by 150 feet. The fiberglass itself is opaque, rather than clear as glass, but does not cloud as rapidly from year to year as plastic does.

To increase fuel efficiency in the fiberglass house, several renovations, or additions of materials, were used later. Last year Pratt placed a corrogated, heavy plastic liner inside the fiberglass layer. They also placed a one-inch thick sheet of styrofoam against the base of the wall from a height of four feet off the ground to a depth of three inches into the ground. Over the styrofoam layer, a sheet of heavy foil was added. The foil lining reflects the heat from the pipes which run along in front of the styrofoam area and keeps moisture and light away from the foam. Both light and moisture deteriorate foam.

After experimenting with fiberglass, Pratt decided to use double plastic, in 1974, to construct a house using two 40 by 150 foot sheets of six ml plastic to raise a house with dimensions of 30 by 14 feet.

The first half of the house was built in that year, then it was finished in 1976. The idea behind using two layers of plastic is to create a layer of air between the two sheets which act as an insulation factor. To keep the two sheets of plastic a few inches apart from each other a very small 12 horsepower blower circulates the air between the layers.

Pratt estimates that the double layer of plastic saves 35 per cent in fuel costs over the glass or single layer plastic houses.

Although the plastic used in greenhouse construction is much heavier, or thicker, than that generally used for other purposes such as packaging, it still does not last very long. Pratt uses an ultraviolet resistant plastic which will cloud and become brittle after two years. Regular plastic will deteriorate in nine months, he mentioned by way of comparison.

Even considering the cost of replacing the plastic every two years, Pratt says the double plastic house is most economical in the long run.

One year after finishing the first double-poly house, Pratt built two more double-poly houses which are gutter-connected – built side by side with a center wall serving as a side wall for each individual house. The two houses together measure 42 by 96 feet with each house 21 feet wide.

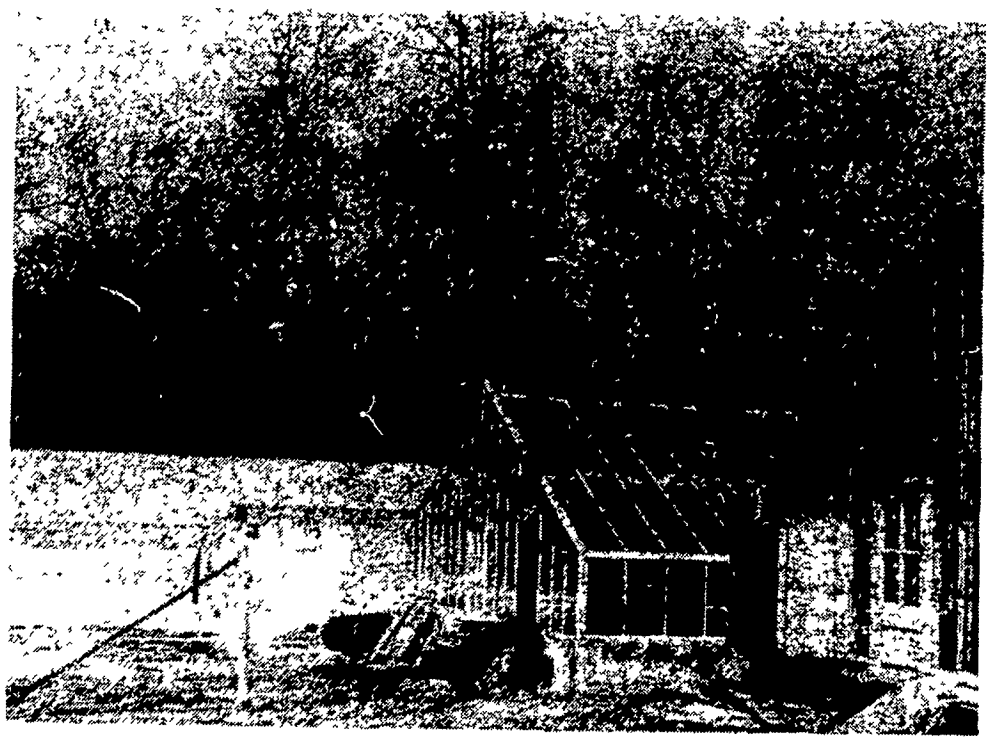
Although only a sheet of plastic separates the two halves of this "double" house, the temperature is much colder in one half than in the other. The north side is cooled for plants such as cyclamen, cineraria, Christmas Cactus and primrose while on the south side of the plastic dividing sheet the sun fills the house with warmth for hanging plants. In this house hanging plants are arranged on wood A frames which run from floor to near ceiling height.

Rather than having side walls which slope in as they rise in a hoop form, the newest plastic houses have side walls which rise straight up for several yards before bending in toward a final curved peak. Pratt pointed out that a 21 foot wide top makes a brighter house than a 30 foot wide top. The wider the top, the less the sunlight that filters across to the north side of a house which runs east to west in its length.

The plastic houses use hot air heat with blowers rather than pipes which can freeze or most be drained. They are "super light" in Pratt's words with less framework and high side walls. Their interiors are uncluttered with pipes and they have a porous floor made of stone, cement and water (no sand) which allows for drainage into a central drainpipe under the floor.

Pratt says he keeps up with the energy saving trends by attending conferences and shows and by reading trade papers. He is optimistic of the future for the greenhouse business. He says, "When there is a depression and money is not so easy to get, people do less travelling and spend more time at home. They buy plants for the home and for their yard or garden."

Donald Pratt is convinced there will always be a demand for plants. His task as a greenhouse owner is to continue to find ways to use fuel more efficiently.



At Pratt's, there are a variety of greenhouses, including glass, plastic and fiberhouse.

Kendy's Kollumn

by Kendace Borry

I'm getting married today.

It's true. Today, St. Patrick's Day, 1979, I am becoming a wife. This afternoon at 4 p.m. I walk down the church aisle for the last time as a single woman.

It's funny when you look back on the events leading to this day. As a warm friendship with a certain man unfolded, I never dreamed that it would develop into the love and devotion that I now feel

Slowly and surely, over a year and a half of sharing moments together, the future of having a life together with each other seemed to beckon to both of us. And now, putting any fears aside, we both are ready to begin the life which we want to experience together--both the good and the bad, the ups and the downs, day in and day out.

Oh, I'm not so starry eyed that I don't realize that there are going to be problems. But I do know that as long as we work on living together in harmony and love, and trust in God above, that our marriage will survive and grow stronger every day

It's very exciting to dream about it, and yet, very sobering too, to think of it all. I'll admit right now I'm a little nervous but this hasn't been the first time in my life that my hands have shaken as I've undertaken a challenge that has come my way. And I guess I think of marriage as a lifelong challenge, with each day a new adventure.

There was a time in my life when I had decided that I would never marry, that I would be happier to live alone. Shy in a sense, stubborn and bull headed at times, it took a very special person to win my love, and I am very happy to say, that not only do I cherish him with all my heart, but I also like him as my best friend. Oftimes he brings out the best in me, for which I'm grateful. And he is there to support me when I have problems. He seems to know how to fulfill my every need.

I'm getting married today. Today I turn a corner in my life as the road to the future stretches ever onward.

God has been very good to me.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

There are certain subjects on which I could talk for hours. One of these is raising children or, to be more specific, our children. They have all made us proud parents, not only in their adult accomplishments but also in their growing-up years.

Having a farm background has helped a great deal. There has always been more work than we could comfortably handle in any one day. So, they have been busy, busy youngsters. Our ancestors probably had something to do with the strong work ethic that affects us to this day. All of them for the past 250 years have been either farmers or teachers or both. So the children have been motivated to achieve.

In achieving their goals they have attempted many things. Their 4-H projects allowed them to try everything from raising pigs and strawberries to building a Grandfather's clock and collecting and classifying rocks. Today they can bake bread, sew, make a complete set of dishes starting with raw clay material, knit beautiful afghans and sweaters or repair a tractor. And these things are just side lines or hobbies and not directly connected with their professions. One is a nurse practitioner, one a general manager with a financial institution, one a chemical researcher, one a food technologist and two others are still studying.

Sometimes people simply look at the size of our children and say, "How did you do it?" I'm sure heredity had a lot to do with it but I'm also sure that these breast-fed children were given the best food that we could grow and had regular hours for eating and sleeping. And, drinking eight quarts of milk a day was regular occasion when they were all at home. So now the boys are all over six foot and the girls are much taller than their parents.

Sometimes I hear other parents talk about their children having no definite plans, no job after college or just sitting around at home. They tell me they are anxious for them to leave. I have never felt that way about ours. There has been always been lots of loving and sharing.

Home gardening course offered

UNIVERSITY PARK - If you are feeling inflation, as most of us are, why not plant a garden? A good garden contributes to the well being of the family by supplying foods that might not otherwise be provided, according to specialists at The Pennsylvania State University. Gardening provides healthful outdoor exercise, offers productive activity for handicapped or disabled persons, and is an excellent way to teach children about growth and reproduction.

Successful gardens do not just happen. A practical guide for growing vegetables in the home garden is available to you from The Pennsylvania State University's correspondence course office. Titled, Home Vegetable Gardening, the course includes ideal planting dates for various vegetables, spaces between rows, amount of seed needed for so many feet of row, kinds of fertilizers, and rates to use, and how to control insects and diseases.

For a copy of the course, send $4 plus 25 cents postage to Home Vegetable Gardening, Box 5000, University Park, Pa. 16802. Make checks payable to Penn State.

Ladies Have You Heard?

By Doris Thomas

Lancaster Home Economist

POTATOES: THE PRICE IS RIGHT

Even though most food prices seem to go up each time you visit the supermarket, there are still some good bargains on the shelves. If you want a current budget stretcher, put potatoes on your shopping list.

Potatoes are an inexpensive meal item during any season, but with the record Fall potato crop, supermarket prices are good. Costing no more than two to three cents per serving, potatoes provide good nutrients for the money.

The delicate flavor of the potato makes it a good mixer; it teams well with almost every other kind of food and flavor. Potatoes are also good meal extenders; they help to stretch servings of other higher cost ingredients.

You can broil it, boil it, mash it or use it in breads and pancakes. To serve boiled potatoes, peel just before using. Soaking in a bowl of cold water results in some vitamin loss. For boiled-in-the-jacket potatoes, wash and gently scrub under running water. Cook in as little water as possible, about one cup of water for six to eight potatoes.

To save time and energy, cook potatoes along with other foods. To pan roast with meat, arrange them peeled, raw, halved or quartered around meat in a roasting pan about one and one-half hours before serving. Baste with pan drippings.

To bake, pierce the skin of each potato in several places with the tines of a fork. Bake them along with whatever is in the oven. Potatoes bake well at any temperature; just adjust length of baking time according to the high or low temperatures. If you foil wrap, you'll have a steamed rather than a baked potato.

Buy only buy what you can use in a week or two unless you have good storage conditions. Potatoes need a cool, 45 to 50 degree F. storage place, away from light. Potatoes exposed to light turn green. This portion must be cut away before preparation and cooking, as the green color causes a bitter flavor and is harmful to eat.

CURRENT CREDIT BINGE SCARES SOME ANALYSTS

"Buy-now-pay-later" could be the winning slogan of the year, since the number of its advocates have far exceeded financial analysts' predictions. I would like to share the following statistics. U.S. consumers currently:

Owe over $1 trillion on home mortgages;

Hold over 600 million credit cards; and

Use nearly $500 billion in installment debt.

Trillions, billions and millions are difficult to comprehend, but the forecast for the average family's finances are well documented. Financial forecasters say consumers are expected to hit their debt limit sometime this year; how, by how much and through what means they curtail spending will affect the country's economic slow down.

Putting more fuel on the credit inferno is the practice of favoring debtors and the availability of credit to families. With rapidly rising prices, consumers are buying goods now – on credit – before goods go up any more in price. The reasons are that borrowed funds are paid back by cheapened dollars, interest payments are tax deductible and inflation increases the value of the items purchased.

Major bank card systems, as well as other credit card issuers, are making it fairly easy for consumers to obtain credity. Many families have two or three national credit cards with several hundred dollars balance on each. Thus, families have more leverage but they also tend to lose sight of the real extent of their debts.

It is not only the amount of debt committment that is of concern but also the length of loans. Short-term consumer credit was considered to be about three years. Four and five-year loans are now common, especially for automobiles.

This present economic situation suggests families should use greater caution before committing more income for credit payments.

Review current debts and calculate what amount of take-home income is currently being used for debt payment. This is not including mortgage or rent payments. If that percentage is approaching 25 per cent of take-home income, all efforts should be made not to increase credit purchases until current debts are reduced.

And as Spring greets us, Early Salad ideas will be welcome for the week of April 21, any that call for those early vegetables that grace the garden. And rounding out that month will be soups and sauces.

If you have a recipe that you would like to share, send it to Home on the Range, Lancaster Farming, Box 366, Lititz, Pa. 17543.

Tips on rose pruning told

UNIVERSITY PARK — How to prune roses depends on what you want from them. Pruning is done to remove old wood, dead, injured or diseased wood; remove surplus wood, and to control the size and bloom of the plant. Light pruning gives larger plants with more flowers. Heavy pruning gives fewer but more perfect flowers.

Specialists at Penn State say "Do not prune rambler roses in the Spring. If you do, you cut off this year's flowerbuds. Prune ramblers after they have bloomed."

Light pruning means cutting the plants back to 18 to 24 inches above ground. Heavy pruning, for show roses or to encourage branching on leggy plants, should be back to 6 to 8 inches. Prune as soon as new growth starts.

Available from the correspondence course office at Penn State is a course entitled Rose Gardening. The course discusses hybrid roses grown outdoors. Varieties, culture, propagating methods, and disease and insect controls are presented. You can get this course by sending $2.50, plus 25 cents postage to Roses, Box 5000, University Park, Pa. 16802. Make your check payable to Penn State.

Eastern acquires Waverly milk plant

SYRACUSE, N.Y. -- Eastern Milk Producers Cooperative recently announced the acquisition of the Waverly, N.Y. milk plant, formerly owned by Valley Creamery Co. Inc., effective March 5, 1979. Howard McDonald, Eastern's General Manager, stated, "We are entering Phase II of Eastern's mozzarella cheese venture with the Leprino Cheese Company of Denver, Colorado." The move was hailed as another positive step in the realization of stable marketing conditions for Eastern members throughout the Northeast.

Arden Tewksbury, Meshoppen, president of the cooperative, announced at a press conference this week that within 60 to 90 days plant renovation will be geared to handle 500,000 pounds of milk per day for the production of cheese curd. Present butter and powder operations will not be disturbed this spring during reconstruction.

McDonald noted that Phase I, the production of mozzarella cheese at Horseheads, N.Y., is operating successfully. The entire program, approved by Eastern's delegate body, is on target.

Tewksbury said that further construction plans at the Waverly site during the Summer and Fall months involves an addition to the present building. By January 1, 1980, it is expected that all work, including the construction of a modern sewage treatment plant, will be completed and the production of mozzarella will be in full swing.

At that time, Leprino will handle one million pounds of milk per day with a work force of 200 employees, according to Ken Hoffa, Vice President of the Leprino Cheese Company.

Eastern's site selection committee, which had been studying several locations over the past few months, decided on the Waverly location because of availability of needed milk supplies and a plant already in existance.

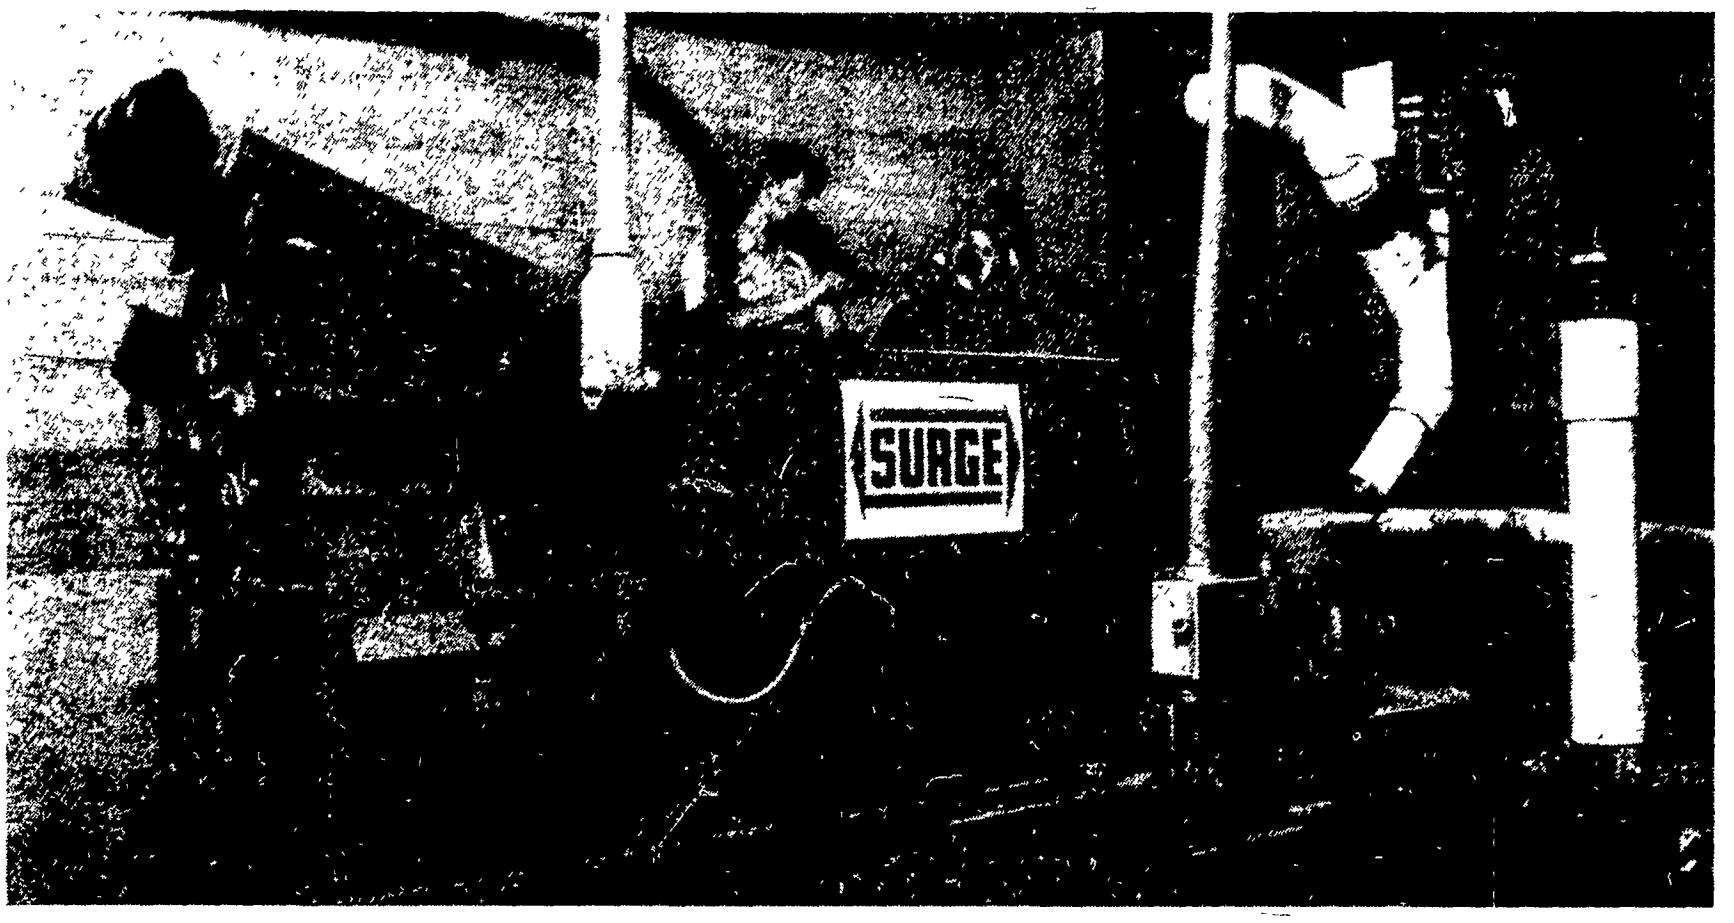
OPTIMUM VITAMIN NUTRITION

DAIRYMEN!!



There's a new and easy way to handle manure. It can even generate extra income. It's TRU from Surge.

If you're a dairyman, check out the rugged, new TRU manure handling system from Surge.

The TRU converts raw dairy manure into two valuable, easy-to-handle by-products. A high nutrient liquid fertilizer; and a low-moisture, near-odorless solid that can be used as a source of quality bedding or sold as garden mulch.

Incoming manure is agitated in a process pit beneath the TRU. The agitated slurry is then pumped through 4 sets of pressurized rubber rollers and perforated steel drums to separate solids from the liquids. The solid has the consistency of commercial peat moss. The liquid contains approximately 85% of the fertilizer value, and because of its water-like consistency can be easily transferred to a lagoon or field with no further agitation.

With a 100 cow herd, the TRU could easily convert a messy, smelly problem into $5000-$8000 worth of high nutrient fertilizer, plus 36,000-54,000 cu. ft. of quality bedding or saleable soil conditioner per year.

Production cost survey set

HARRISBURG - State Agriculture Secretary Penrose Hallowell recently announced that selected Pennsylvania farmers will be contacted in a nationwide survey to identify costs of crop production for 1978.

According to Hallowell, the survey is being conducted in response to concerns about rising production costs, which are being voiced by farmers, farm organizations, legislators and others in agriculture.

Wally Evans, statician in charge of the Pennsyvlania Crop Reporting Service said that field interviewers representing the service will visit local producers in March and April. They will be seeking information on 1978 production costs for oats, barley, wheat and corn.

Evans noted that all information for the survey will be kept confidential and will be used only in regional and national summaries.

The cost estimates will assist government planners in determining the economic situation for farmers and in developing typical farm budgets for producing selected crops.

Questions will also be directed at machinery and irrigation use, fertilizer and pesticide applications and land rentals.

More information on the survey is available by contacting W. C. Evans, Pennsyvlania Crop Reporting Service, 2301 North Cameron Street, Harrisburg, Pa. 17120 or by calling 717-787-3904.

Kathy Miller named FFA Sweetheart

DILLSBURG – Slender, dark-haired Kathy Miller was crowned Sweetheart by the Gifford Pinchot chapter of the Future Farmers of America during their annual awards banquet, held last week at Northern High School.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Miller, Kathy is 16 and a sophomore student in her first year of FFA.

She won her title and earned the chapter treasury a sum of $16 in a "cash vote" selection process. Members of the FFA voted their choice by contributing in the name of their favorite of three nominees.

Swine projects have been the new Sweetheart's main interest through the vocational agriculture program. She raised two market hogs this year, which were sold at the Farm Show, and will start two breeding sows this Spring. Kathy is also a member of the York County 4-H Baby Beef club and exhibited and sold her steer at the January Farm Show.

Kathy Miller is the Gifford Pinchot FFA's newly-crowned chapter Sweetheart.

An academic agriculture student at Northern High, she works part time as a nurses' aide at Seidle Memorial Hospital in Mechanicsburg.

First runner up for the competition was Kim Sheets; Melissa Mills placed as second runner up.

Drug hearing slated

WASHINGTON — The Food and Drug Administration has decided to hold a hearing on proposals by its Bureau of Veterinary Medicine to restrict or ban penecillin and tetracycline in animal feeds. The hearing will be held before an administrative law judge who will then recommend what final action FDA should take.

The hearing will encompass a controversy between farmers and the government. While farm organizations such as the American Farm Bureau maintain that the feed additives are safe, the government is charginbg that eating meat of medicated feed animals could make humans less immune to bacterial diseases. That claim has been challenged by scientists siding with the agricultural lobbies.

No date has as yet been set for the hearing.

Expo contests were 'good old-fashioned fun'

HARRISBURG – Farmers Fun Night, a special event at the first Pennsylvania Farm Machinery Exposition, was "pure, unadulterated, good old-fashioned fun," according to Penrose Hallowell, State Agriculture Secretary, who was a contestant himself.

Hallowell managed a second place effort in the Invitational Cow Chip Throwing Championship at the event, tossing a baked cow chip 55 feet, six and one-half inches. But his effort fell far short of the new Farm Machinery Exposition record established by winner Dieter Krieg of Lititz. Krieg, editor of Lancaster Farming, using a discus style windup and release, watched as his chip soared into the upper reaches of the building before falling back to earth 93 feet one inch from the starting line. Distances were subject to deductions for lack of accuracy in the toss.

While the contest was originally open to only those who had received special invitations to compete, it was later opened to anyone wishing to try his hand on the chip. In this expanded field of competition, a fellow named David Sessaman (no further information given) fired the chip for a net distance of 71 feet, 4 inches.

Ron Lutz of Landisville, took the top prize of a brass spittoon in the tobacco spitting contest, sponsored by Scotten Dillon Tobacco prizes in the bale throwing contest. Lester Weiler captured the honors in the 14 and under division, while big brother Eugene led the field of nearly fifty contestants in the 14 and older division.

(Turn to Page 105)

Happy with their prizes after winning the bale throwing contest are Lester and Eugene Weiler of Myerstown. They received their trophies and a congratulatory handshake from Pennsylvania Agriculture Secretary Penrose Hallowell, center.

Lester Moyer and Donny Herbert, of Reading, gave the crowd a demonstration of teamwork in the log sawing contest as they made three cuts through a 12 by 12 inch poplar cant. Using a two man cross-cut saw, the men managed their three cuts in 1:01, 52 seconds less than the closest competition, Charles Graydus and Matt Kolb, Jr., of Elverson.

An upper Dauphin County man, Galen Deibler of Halifax R4, took the potato picking contest, winning both his preliminary heat and the final. Contestants in the potato picking contest gathered potatoes in a bucket and carried them to the end of a 25 foot lane to be placed in bags. In each heat, the first to bag 100 pounds of potatoes was declared the winner. Eddy Hammond of Chambersburg R11, placed second in the event.

The final event of the competition was a hog calling contest, with entrants given sixty seconds to do their best at attracting the hogs' attention. The rafters rang with echoing shouts, yodels, exhortations and pleas before the three judge panel awarded first prize to Atlee Keefer of York Springs R2 Adams County. Second place was taken by John Warke, Kutztown R3. Judges for the contest were Chester Heim, Deputy Secretary of Agriculture; Kent Shelhamer, former Agriculture Secretary; and Noah Wenger, a state representative from Stevens, Lancaster County.

Master of Ceremonies for the evening's competition was Robert Williams, editor of the Pennsylvania Farmer, from Camp Hill.

Following the events, square dancing was held in the arena. Music was provided by the Neighbor Tones, featuring Charlie Benner of Middleburg.

Lester Moyer and Donny Herbert of Berks County sliced through the log in record time, during competition at Farmers' Fun Night last week.

Pennfield dairy awards go to widespread area

SMOKETOWN — Dairyman from more than 20 counties in Pennsylvania and Maryland were gathered here at the Good'n Plenty Restaurant on Tuesday to be recognized for their achievements in milk and butterfat production. Focusing the spotlight on them was Pennfield Corporation, for the assembled dairy farmers all had one thing in common: They were on the Penn-Pro Dairy Feeding Program.

This was the eighth annual Pennfield Dairy Awards Banquet, and as in preceding years, the number of prestigious herds grew significantly despite high requirements for the honors. Robert Gregory, Pennfield's manager for dairy and livestock feed marketing, noted that high herd honors went to those with over 17,000 pounds of milk and-or 625 pounds of butterfat. To have a Holstein qualify for top individual recognition, she had to have produced 1050 pounds of butterfat and-or 26,000 pounds of milk.

Pennfield had eight of its herds surpass the 700-pound butterfat mark this year, with high honors going once again to Sinking Springs Farm of York. Under the management of Herman Stebbins, the farm's 65 cows averaged 19,593 pounds of milk and 762 pounds of butterfat. Stebbins is one of the country's best known Holstein breeders and has won numerous plaques and trophies from breed and dairymens' associations.

Among Stebbins' most productive individual entries this year, were four cows with over 1000 pounds of butterfat. All tolled, Sinking Springs Farm had six cows qualify for top honors.

The second high herd belongs to John Stoltzfus of Atglen, owner of Stoltcliff Farm. His 60 cows averaged 18,836 pounds of milk and 747 pounds of butterfat. The Chester County dairyman qualified for additional honors by showing a 1118 and 46 pound improvement over the preceding year for milk and butterfat, respectively. Sizable increases in herd performances (up 1000 pounds of milk or 50 pounds of butterfat) were a third way dairymen could win recognition for their work. Aside from a high herd average, and herd improvement during the past testing year, Stoltzfus also won honors with four individual performances.

Town View Farm of Loysville, owned by Carl E. McMillen, was congratulated for having the third highest herd on Pennfield's feeding program. His average for 65 cows was pegged at 18,646 pounds of milk and 729 pounds of butterfat. Six of his cows Among Lancaster Countians who were recognized for top performance in the dairy business were (front row, left to right) Galen Hostetter, Bonnie Miller, Thelma Hess, Barb Stauffer, and Nancy Balmer with son Jeff. Back row: Ed Snavely, Frank Campbell (Pennfield representatives), Hershey Hostetter, Larry Miller, John Breckbill, Richard Hess, Robert Book, Earl Stauffer, Jesse Balmer, and Peter Witmer.

Washington County, Maryland dairymen who won recognition from Pennfield this week were Mr. and Mrs. Lee Worthington, and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Barnhart.

Since 1974 the world corn yield champs have had one thing in common: Furadan.

When you're pushing your corn as high as it'll go, you've got to make every bushel count.

That's why it's no surprise that each of these world champion growers relied on Furadan® insecticide-nematicide to protect his corn.

Why? Because Furadan stops more corn-robbing pests than any other soil insecticide. It not only gets rootworms—it controls nematodes, European corn borers (first generation), Southwestern corn borers, wireworms, armyworms, early-season fall armyworms and flea beetles.

Remember that the timing and rate of application vary with the pest. So be sure to follow label directions.

Of course, we can't promise you'll set a world's record with Furadan. But we can promise you'll stop more corn pests and save more corn. And that's the way to make every bushel count—whether you shoot for 100, 200, or 300 bushels per acre.

Put on Furadan this spring. And see for yourself why the top corn growers in the world depend on Furadan to save their corn.

Horseowners face Spring tasks

NEWARK, Dela. – Most horses lead a less active life during the cold Winter season, so when Spring comes, you'll need to get your horse ready for more intensive use. Even if you've been actively using your horse through the past few months, he'll need Springtime attention, according to C. Melvin Reitnour, equine specialist at the University of Delaware.

Now is the time to trim your horse's hooves and reshoe him if necessary, Reitnour says, Also, treat the animal for both internal and external parasites.

In addition, it is important to vaccinate all horses to protect them against the disease tetanus, enchephalomyelitis and possibly influenza.

Inspect, repair and condition all pieces of equipment. Your saddles and all leather straps should be cleaned, treated with neatsfoot oil, and cleaned again with saddle soap, Reitnour advises.

And remember, you're taking your horse out of "storage," so don't demand too much of him at the start of the season. Bring him into condition slowly, Reitnour advises.

Heisler Brothers - John, Leroy, and Mark - of Tamaqua, edged past the 700-pound mark with an average of 17,758 pounds of milk and 703 pounds of butterfat on 68 cows. They showed an improvement of 1177 for milk and 30 pounds of butterfat over last year.

Eli Lapp, Gordonville, had a 17,430 pounds of milk and 702 pounds of butterfat per cow to squeeze by for the highest honors. His improvement over last year rang up to 1022 pounds of milk and 22 pounds of butterfat.

While the herds over 700 pounds of butterfat were given the brightest spotlight, words of congratulations were offered to all of the assembled dairymen who qualified for high dairy production honors. Joining feed marketing manager Bob Gregory in the rounds of recognition was Richard Peacock, feed sales manager for Pennfield. Both commented on the advances that have been made in the dairy business and the challenges that exist for nutritionists and feed companies.

Several herd owners came close to hurdling across the 700-pound barrier. Among them were Ray McMillen of Loysville, (18,653 pounds of milk and 698 pounds of butterfat on 69 cows); Donald Bare, Lancaster, (18,536 pounds of milk, 694 pounds of butterfat, with a respective improvement of 2295 and 52 over last year); and Dale Hostetter and Sons of Annville, (17,484 pounds of milk and 684 pounds of butterfat on 80 cows.)

Well over 100 dairy farmers, their wives, and guests were present for the awards presentations.

Dairy specialist emphasizes efficiency

HUMMELSTOWN - Professor Donald Ace, dairy specialist and interim chairman of the Penn State University Department of Dairy and Animal Science, addressed a large group of Dauphin County dairy farmers at Cedar Crest High School recently, emphasizing the need for farmers to plan their entire housing, feeding and milking system as a unit to achieve the maximum efficiency.

"Good forages such as alfalfa, hay and silage, and corn silage are the bulky backbone of the dairy industry. Any dairy housing and feeding system should be planned for easy handling of forages, from storage to feed trough." Forages should make up at least 65 to 70 per cent of the ration for dairy cows, the remainder coming from grain concentrate.

Ace also emphasized the importance of feeding some dry hay to cows prior to calving. Many problems can be avoided by furnishing more bulk in the diet of ruminants such as cattle. He also said that the modern trend toward a properly formulated total mixed ration (TMR) has simplified the science of making sure that cows are adequately fed for good health and high production.

Addressing the problems of keeping calves healthy and growing, Ace said that there is a direct relationship between a moist environment and the numbers of disease organisms. A clean, dry pen for calves, with a plentiful supply of clean fresh air will raise more healthy calves than any fancy, warm heated barns. Calves don't seem to mind cold temperatures as long as they are healthy, dry and well fed, Ace maintains.

The dairy specialist pointed out that, while the dairy industry as a whole is in a rather sound position at the moment, young farmers must be particularly alert to the fine details of operating this business. The key to an individual's success is efficiency, which will assure a satisfactory spread between the cost of production and return in exchange for labor and capital.

The meeting was the last in a series conducted by the Lebanon County Cooperative Extension Service in cooperation with the County Young Farmers Association. The Cedar Crest Young Farmers were hosts to the session.

Mushroom workers rebelling

WEST CHESTER — An attempt to unionize mushroom pickers in Chester County is being supported by a canners' union in the area, representatives of the American Civil Liberties Union, the West Chester Coalition for Human Rights, as well as priests and nuns from area churches. The issue has reportedly gone to the Pennsylvania Labor Relations Board for a decision on whether or not mushroom growing is an agricultural or industrial operastion.

Earlier this month, a group of about 75 placard-carrying mushroom workers stayed off the job in order to force union elections.

Time for a Spring fixup checklist

NEW YORK, N.Y. - When the sun shines after a long, dark Winter, one sees things around the house she never saw before. So now that it's Spring, homemakers are making a walk-around inspection tour of their home to see what toll the Winter has taken.

They should keep an eye out for the little things–a little paint peeling here, something sagging, something leaking. It all adds up to the beginning of a shabby look one won't like and bigger, more expensive jobs that one wants to avoid.

One should take time on a weekend to make a criticial appraisal of the place. To do it in earnest, a person needs a ladder and a note-pad and pencil. Writing down what is found, serves two purposes: it helps one remember, and it gives a repair list so one can schedule the more urgent maintenance jobs.

If a person has a low-pitched roof that's easy to walk on, he or she can start there and check the following:

Chimney. Check the cap for cracks, including hairline cracks which can let water seep in. If cap is badly damaged, replacing it will be an important priority. Check for loose chimney mortar, too.

Soil stack. Check condition of roofing cement at base.

Shingles. Check ridge and hip shingles for any that are cracked or loose. Check for loose nails, too. Hint: Come armed with colored tape to mark the spots needing repairs.

Gutters and downspouts. Check for proper pitch, leaks at seams and connections. Note any loose hangers. Check for blockages caused by debris.

Attic louvers. Check caulking around all sides; check condition of screening.

Siding. Check for nail pops, loose siding, peeling paint.

Foundation. Check for cracks, chips.

Caulking. Check condition of caulking around doors and windows; don't forget basement windows.

Doors. Check condition of thresholds; check hinges.

Windows. Check sills and frames; check for loose putty.

Garage doors. Check hinges for rust.

Driveway. Check for cracks in concrete or blacktop.

Once one has listed the repair priorities, he or she can check out the materials he'll need.

To learn more about basic outdoor repairs and how to do them, one can send for a free booklet, "How to Repair 12 Outdoor Trouble Spots," by sending self-addressed, stamped envelope to: Elmer's Product Information Center, P.O. Box 157, Hilliard, Ohio 43026.

Market administrator defends Orders and coops

By DIETER KRIEG

LANDISBURG — The good milk prices dairymen are currently receiving didn't just happen, says a Federal Milk Marketing Order Administrator. They're the result of cooperatives having worked for them through orderly marketing nationwide and intensive lobbying in Washington.

"The need for cooperatives is so clear that you ought to get furious whenever researchers say we don't need them, Administrator Thomas Wilson continued.

Both dairy cooperatives and the Federal Order System are necessary institutions to lend stability to the market place, the USDA employee affirmed.

Speaking here last week at an informational meeting for dairymen, Wilson told the assembled farmers that they could vote the Federal Order System out of existence, if they wanted to, but warned: "You need something similar to it to set up stability in your markets. I believe farmers need the Order. Without it dairymen are too vulnerable to their own as well as seasonal production patterns. Farmers don't control their own production."

Wilson, who is Market Administrator for the New York - New Jersey Federal Milk Marketing Order (Order 2), spoke at the Perry County meeting at the invitation of Eastern Milk Producers Cooperative. A second, and very similar meeting was held later in the week at Blue Ball, Lancaster County, as well. Aside from Wilson, both meetings also featured Joe Mathis, economist for Eastern.

While repeatedly and emphatically crediting dairy cooperatives for higher milk prices, Wilson wasn't nearly so kind with the government's side of the picture. "I believe the government does a poor job in answering questions about Federal Orders," he said. "I believe Federal Orders have been badly publicized," he added.

According to Wilson, Federal Orders provide the mechanism by which orderly marketing takes place. Also, they couldn't exist without the co-ops. "When they work, they work for all producers," Wilson continued. "You've got to work through an organization to be effective." The administrator says cooperatives' lobbying efforts have resulted in legislation which now requires the support prices to be reviewed and raised semi-annually.

While Wilson left no doubt that he believed farmer strength can most effectively be forged through cooperatives, he spoke disapprovingly of efforts which threaten to dismantle a portion of the cooperative system.

"I suspect that there will be some changes made," Wilson offered in reference to hearings and studies which have taken place. It has been suggested that farmer cooperatives have their rights and powers curtailed. "Some handler organizations are working hard to get rid of cooperatives and Orders," he went on.

"All the problems with co-ops haven't been solved, but the co-ops can take credit for the good prices that you've been receiving, and for that, the cooperatives need your appreciation and support," Wilson explained.

Acknowledging that there have been some marketing problems with milk, Wilson also pointed out that milk pooling conditions are much improved over what they were a couple of years ago. Supplies are much better balanced between Order 2 and Order 4, he claimed, and Class I sales have risen appreciatively. Some of that change is due to a large handler, Johanna Farms of New Jersey, switching from Order 4 back to Order 2.

Wilson went so far with his pro - cooperative speech that he declared: "It's a serious error if you get to thinking that the government will take care of us. That's rediculous. All the government does is provide a system. We don't guarantee anything. The government administers the prices, but doesn't have any discretion over what the price will be."

"Our dairy cooperatives are needed," he said in his concluding remarks, "I believe that all producers should belong."

In other remarks, Wilson also described the effect of a truckers' strike in New York City which has forced milk prices as high as $8 per gallon in area stores.

4-H Expo held in York

YORK - Amidst thousands of shoppers who thronged to the York Mall during the season's first warm weekend, the York County 4-H program cultivated its public relations program with the second annual 4-H Expo.

As always, the baby animal display was a focal point of shopper interest. Children and adults were constantly pressed against the temporary "barnyard" housing two lambs, a clutch of bunnies and several playful pups.

Promotional displays filled several sections of the central walking areas and included a listening section with seating for visitors who wanted more than a passing glance at the demonstrations scheduled every half-hour throughout Friday evening and Saturday.

Friday demonstrations were given by Laura Stabley, Loganville "Roots;" James Caudill, Windsor, "How To Block A Lamb"; Tanya Brenneman, Dallastown, "Plants"; and Dawn Raubenstine, Hanover, "Mother Nature's Answer."

Included on the Saturday program were Chris Shive, Seven Valleys, "Tattooing—A Way of Identification;" Chris Itle, Lewisberry, "Home Management;" Susan Eisenhart, Thomasville, "Mail Call;" Nancy Eisenhart, Thomasville, "Be Ready," and Christy Waltersdorff, York, with her 4-H public speaking presentation.

Also, Rita Loughran, Dallastown, "Creating Corsages;" Mike Welsh, East Berlin, "Through the Pinhole;" Kathy Rauhauser, Dover, "Operation Hobby: Ceramics;" Ray Swartz, Hanover, "Metric Beef;" Ann Hutchenreuter, Hanover, "Plant Overcoat;" Joey Welsh, East Berlin, "Spot the Hazards;" Carl Loughran, Dallastown, "Weight Lifting;" and Kay Swartz, Hanover, public speaking.

Several of the county's sixteen community clubs, as well as many of the commodity and project clubs, entered displays.

First place in the ribbon award went to the Thomasville Community Club. York County Council club placed second and Horse-N-Around was third.

The Shrewsbury, Davidsbury and Jefferson community clubs also won blue-ribbon recognition.

Red ribbon placings were awarded to Loganville, York County Horticulture club, Wellsville Boots and Saddle, Redland, Airville, Bull Dogs, Trail Blazers, Glen Rock, Crestwood and Central Dairy.

The Safety club, Wellsville and Hanover won white-ribbon awards.

Cattlemen still aiming for promotion program

DENVER, Colo. – Industry approval of a Beef Research and Information program will be one of the principal objectives of the National Cattlemen's Association in the coming year.

This was pointed out recently by Lauren Carlson, NCA president, as he reviewed actions taken by members and the board of directors at the association's recent convention.

Carlson explained that, in resolutions and in other convention actions, the association established or reaffirmed policies on public issues, and it set priorities in the government affairs and other areas.

At its meeting, the new board approved a "Beeferendum" report presented by the Product Research, Promotion and Consumer Relations Committee. This report includes a suggested beef order, to be presented to the U.S. Department of Agriculture. After hearings, USDA will develop a new order, which will be submitted to producers in a referendum in late 1979 or early 1980. Under legislation enacted last year, the order may be approved by a simple majority rather than a 2/3 majority.

Because of the need for more beef research, information and promotion, Carlson said, work on passage of the referendum will be a high priority project of NCA and affiliated organizations.

The association will also be dealing with the beef price issue. And, in the legislative area, the association resolved to again seek amendments to the Meat Import Act which will provide limits on Presidential discretion as well as a counter-cyclical quota formula. The group also will push for a constitutional amendment requiring a balanced budget.

Here, as determined in action on resolutions, are some of the other public issue problems NCA will be working on. The subjects are categorized basically according to committees responsible for policy development and implementation. The actions supplement previously established policies on important issues.

ANIMAL HEALTH

NCA is opposing any FDA registration requirements for mixer-feeders and any regulations that duplicate existing responsibilities of feeders and mixer-feeders to prevent drug residues. Following up on the Brucellosis Technical Commission report, NCA will work with USDA in developing and implementing a sound, fair, effective brucellosis program. It also will for acceleration of the scabies program.

RESEARCH

The association will seek restoration of certain funds for priority animal health research; will support a rangeland research act; will push for some of USDA's human nutrition work to be centered in a land grant college – not just in other types of institutions.

ENVIRONMENTAL MANAGEMENT

NCA is urging the government to participate in erosion and waste management control practices through a cost-sharing program. It will seek improved predator control programs.

FOREIGN TRADE

The association will evaluate the trade package being developed in multilateral trade negotiation limiting Presidential authority, in addition to providing a counter-cyclical formula.

On being a farm wife

—And other hazards

By JOYCE BUPP

Society has suddenly begun focusing on the problem of wife abuse.

While not totally unheard of, it's rare to hear of a farmer who beats his wife.

They have more socially acceptable ways to keep the little woman in line.

It's called letting us "help" around the farm.

A black and blue farm wife suffers perhaps, not from the fist, but from the feet.

The feet might be those belonging to a thousand-pound heifer, who the farm wife was supposed to help round up for a yearly cold shot.

Or, maybe it was the feet of a three-hundred-pound pregnant sow with an edgy temper who took an instant dislike to the new farrowing pen.

It might even have been the nimble pointy little hoofs of a hundred sheep stampeding to the grain and hay filled dinner trough, leaving our farm wife with ankle abrasions.

By this time, if the farm wife is not headed feet-first to an X-ray technician, she will have at least become a critically addicted band-aid junkie.

A band-aid will comfort a throbbing thumb afflicted while bending a nail over the barn door to hold it in place after the hingest fell off.

Still another band-aid will stop the flow of blood pouring from the inch-long slit in your arm left by an army of razor-sharp corn leaves that attack you as you chase those escaped cows.

And yet another band-aid will cushion your big toe, which you dislocated when you kicked the disk, which filled up with clumps of ground, which were impossible to remove, which left you standing in the middle of a field furious with frustration.

So, you see, there are already many rural homes for abused wives. Trouble is, we have to clean the doggone things.

NOW! Before It's Too Late! Practice FARM SAFETY

A Hydro-Heater Franklin will cut your fuel costs . . .
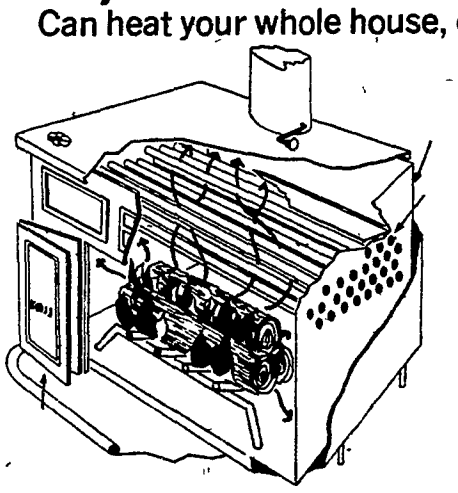
Can heat your whole house, even when it's zero outside!



A 1¼" water jacket surrounds the fire on back, sides and bottom. This allows you to place the Hydro-Heater Franklin within 6" of any wall or partition, because the outside temperature never exceeds 210°.

Directional flow tubing captures the heat that is normally lost up the flue. 65% of the heat collected in Hydro-Heater is absorbed by the tubing section. This heat is then transferred to your existing heating system.

AVAILABLE ARE HOT WATER HEAT EXCHANGERS FOR DOMESTIC HOT WATER SYSTEMS.

Also Available Are Fireplace Units

A Hydro-Heater Franklin gives you a 300 to 500 per cent increase in heat output over normal Franklin-type stoves. In fact, you get a 175,000 BTU output with a Hydro-Heater Franklin! And with a Hydro-Heater, you don't put up with the "freeze or fry" situation experienced with ordinary Franklin-type stoves. That's because Hydro-Heater transfers its heat to your existing home heating system to warm every room in your house. Why settle for just any conventional wood-burning stove when you can have a beautiful, efficient Hydro-Heater Franklin.

American Pork Congress selects officers, queen

INDIANAPOLIS, IN - An Illinois girl, 20 year-old Ann Starr, Nauvoo, has been crowned as the 1979 National Pork Queen in ceremonies at the American Pork Congress, Indianapolis. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Starr, she was one of 21 girls competing for the title.

Indiana's candidate, Teri Middlesworth, 21, was chosen as first runner-up. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Middlesworth, Marion. The Miss Congeniality title went to Vicki Hennerberg, 20, Hennerberg, KS, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Hennerberg.

In other APC action, delegates at the National Pork Producers Council's annual meeting gave their approval to a new $952,000 Council headquarters to be built in Des Moines, Iowa. Contracts for the building were signed with construction expected to begin as soon as possible with a January 1, 1980 completion date.

William Buller, Brookings, S.D., was elected president of the Council to succeed John Soorholtz. John Saunders of Osborn, Mo., was chosen as vice president. Buller and Ritchie Jordan, Virginia, were re-elected to the executive board. Names as new executive board members were Roy Sharp, Tulare, Ca., and Glenn Conatser, of the American Yorkshire Club, representing the National Association of Swine Records.

Over 15,000 producers from across the United States and Canada and a number of foreign countries attended this year's American Pork Congress.

LABOR

NCA is opposing any federal workmen's compensation legislation affecting agriculture.

MARKETING

Noting that converting land titles to the metric system would be impossible, NCA will oppose conversion to the metric system. The board was directed to proceed with a cattle cycle monitoring project aimed at modifying the cyclical extremes.

PRIVATE LANDS AND WATER USAGE

Congress will be asked to direct agencies involved to use scientific and factual data and get away from the emotionalism and opinion now playing a major role in administration of natural resource and public land management programs. The association adopted several other policies in support of water and property rights.

PRODUCT RESEARCH AND PROMOTION

NCA will encourage proper labeling of foods, including nutrient values, but on a voluntary basis.

PRODUCT STANDARDS

The association is supporting certain changes, as previously outlined, in proposed beef grading regulations. By a fairly close vote, the membership tabled a resolution suggesting a new feeder cattle grading system.

PUBLIC LANDS

NCA members support prompt appropriation of funds authorized for rangeland improvement for multiple purposes, under the Rangelands Improvement Act.

TAXATION

Several resolutions called for improvements in certain tax law provisions including provisions dealing with facilities qualifying for investment tax credits; regulations dealing with Sub-Chapter S corporations; gift taxes; social security tax rates.

TRANSPORTATION

NCA will support deregulation of railroads.

MISCELLANEOUS

The association will push for a constitutional amendment, preferably obtained via the state ratification process, requiring a balanced federal budget, except in time of national emergency. This is necessary if the nation ever is to lick its inflation problems. The association urged that the Secretary of Agriculture recommit his department to effectively representing agricultural interests. Members voiced strong opposition to using government funds to pay hearing witnesses, to pay fees of attorneys representing various groups, and to subsidize activist organizations through grants.

Farm gas is tops

WASHINGTON — Agricultural users of natural gas will get top priority under the Natural Gas Policy Act of 1978, according to guidelines announced recently by the United States Department of Agriculture.

Accordingly, all agricultural users of 300,000 cubic feet per day or less get 100 per cent of their requirements on an "as needed" basis. Users for agricultural production including crop drying and irrigation pumping will also get 100 per cent of their requirements, as needed. Larger users of natural gas will supposedly get amounts equal to their highest use during the last three years.

Grant stresses trade balance

WASHINGTON, D.C. – The leader of the nation's largest farm organization warned recently that "without tangible improvement in the trade balance between Japan and the United States, there is real danger that some trade doors will be closed." He stressed that this should not be allowed to happen.

Allan Grant, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, addressed the Washington conference on U.S. - Japan Agricultural Trade.

Grant told the conference, "We must do everything we can to keep goods and commodities flowing." He emphasized the need for a "continuing" and "honorable" dialogue between the two nations.

There has been some relaxation of Japanese barriers against U.S. meat and citrus imports. Grant congratulated the Japanese delegates on the import concessions, adding, "We think that as they phase into full effect you will discover that they are easy to live with – that our products will be popular with consumers and of no harm whatsoever to the economy of your farming community."

Japan has resisted dependency on U.S. exports because of a grain embargo imposed several years ago. Grant said Farm Bureau is "prepared to use every legal means to prevent any repetition" of such an embargo.

"Our national political leaders," Grant said. "have learned that farmers will no longer allow their grain and other commodities to be held hostage to consumerist and political pressure."

Pfizer Genetics' Trojan Hybrid Seed Corn

is tested by the most superior method of on-the-farm testing known to the seed industry. This special test, designated as TST, is designed to make the most statistically valid comparisons among hybrids on a field scale.

TXS 94

Yield, Superior Emergence, and a strong root system are three outstanding features of this 94 day variety.

T 1008

A superior new release for the 100 day maturity areas. Stalk strength and leaf disease tolerance are excellent. Drought tolerance and emergence are well above average.

TXS 113

One of the most consistent hybrids in the entire cornbelt for 113 day maturity. Has excellent leaf disease tolerance, stalk quality and seedling vigor.

TXS 115A

One of the highest yielding hybrids in the seed corn industry. TXS 115A, a 115 day variety, is a tall, dark green attractive plant with very erect leaves.

TX 119A

An excellent deep penetrating root system, coupled with strong stalks and outstanding drought tolerance, makes this hardy 119 day hybrid a first class choice for shallow, low water holding soils where stress may be a primary factor in limiting yields.

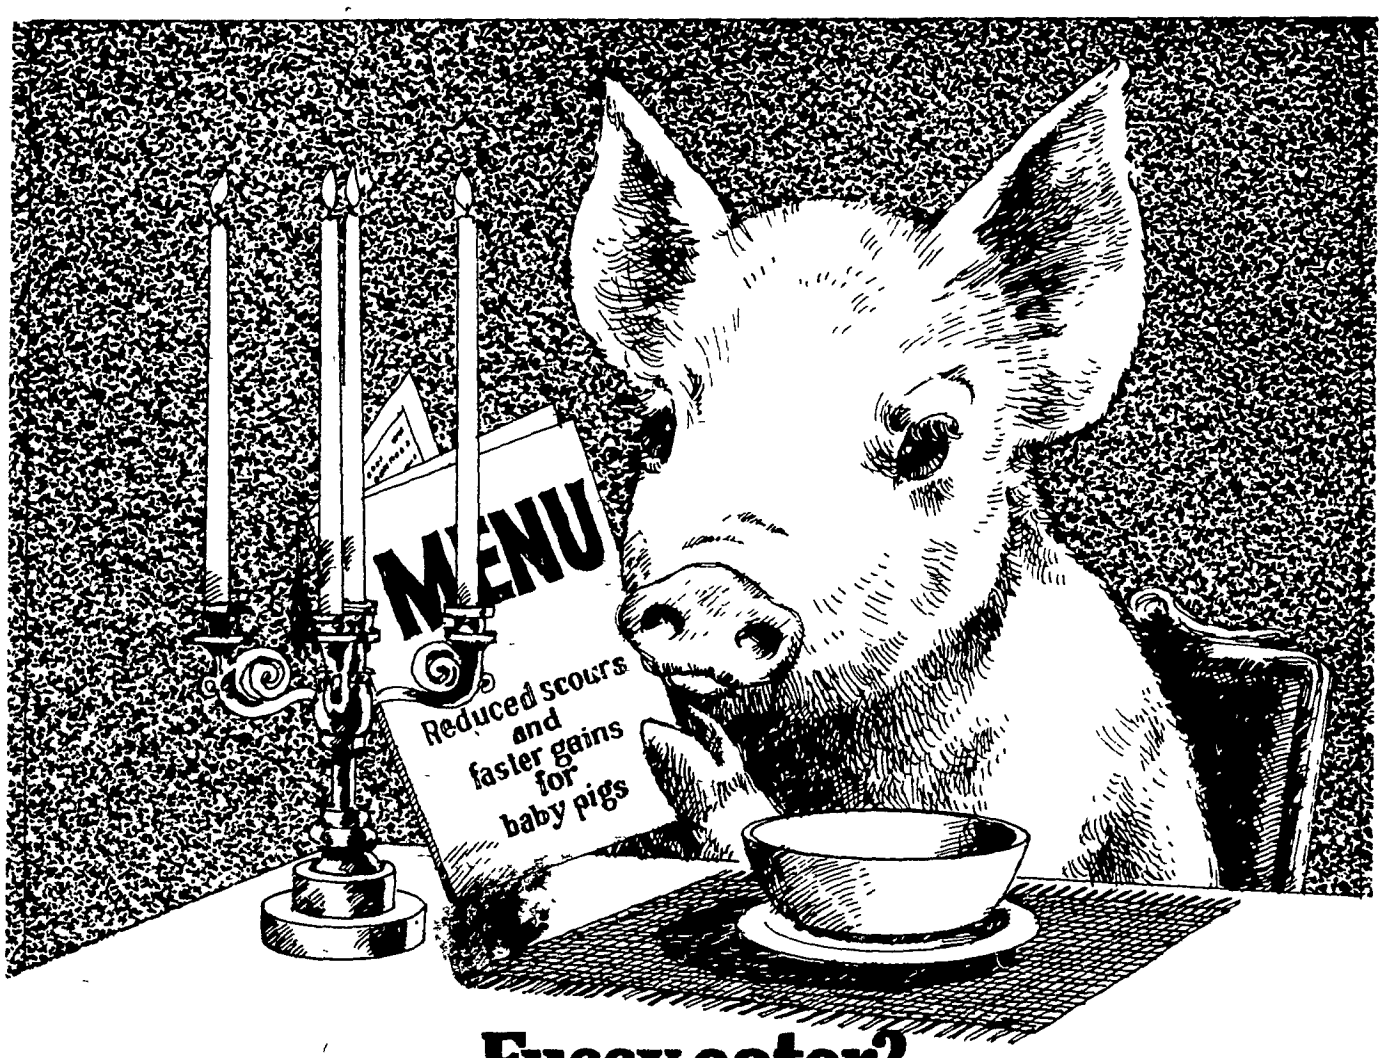
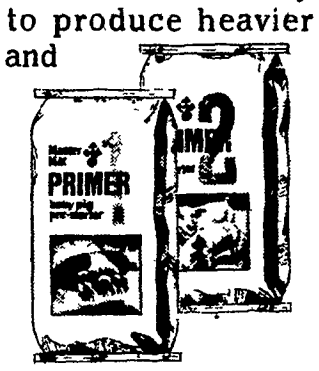
MASTER MIX PRIMER 1 & 2



Fussy eater? Feed 'em Primer® 1 & 2.

You know how important it is to get that first bite of medicated feed into that fussy baby pig. Primer 1 from Master Mix has proved it has the early starting power to produce heavier weaning weights and greater stamina. Palatability in mini-pellet sizes makes the fast-gain difference.



Then from weaning to 40 lbs., feed Primer 2 medicated. It gets pigs up to 40 pounds fast—on less feed. Ask us how Primer 1 and Primer 2 complete feeds, based on the baby pig's needs for Available Amino Acids, make them the efficiency favorites of cost-conscious hog producers.

Master Mix CENTRAL SOYA

More to Gain.™

BENEFITS YOU CAN EXPECT FROM PRIMER 1 & 2:

- ★ AAA formulation - increased daily gain.
- ★ Increased fiber level - reduces scouring.
- ★ New flavoring agent - increases palatability.

Chester County DHIA Monthly Report

JANUARY 1979

George Lamborn is owner of the high record cow for lactations completed in January. His "Ada," an 8-year old, produced 27,093 pounds of milk and 1080 pounds of butterfat in 305 days. High for milk was a cow in the Jefferson Yoder herd. Appropriately enough, she's known as No. 1. Her 305-day record topped out at 30,236 pounds of milk and 1022 pounds of butterfat.

Foreign farmland buyers must report

ANNAPOLIS, Md. – A strict reporting schedule designed to compile and keep and up to date record of foreigners who purchase farmland is now being implemented according to Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Wayne A. Cawley, Jr.

Under new Federal regulations, aliens or foreign interests who owned U.S. farmland prior to February 6th of this year must report such ownership by August 6th. Those acquiring land after February 6th must report the transfer within 90 days.

Reports are to be filed with the ASCS office in the county where the land is located. Failure to report could result in a fine of up to 25 per cent of the property's assessed value.

Secretary Cawley, in calling attention to the new regulations, noted that in Maryland anyone with questions about the program should contact ASCS State Executive Director James M. Voss at 301-344-4200.

NEW DISC FOR THE BIG JOBS

The MF 730 is designed for big farming requirements. For tillage, cornstalk cutting, chemical incorporation, land leveling and seedbed preparation, here's offset disc performance you can count on.

- Two-section flexible and folding frame models have cutting widths from 16′ to 24′.
- With 10 to 15 horsepower per foot of cut, you can deliver from 140 to 280 lbs. of weight per blade.
- Reversible blades with plain or notched edges are available in 9″ or 10½″ spacing.
- Gang angles are adjustable — front and rear.
- The two-position, self-leveling hitch has an adjustable tongue on-to-go adjustment of draft line.

ECONOMY POWERKING sets a fast pace on tough jobs

Big acreage heavy loads rough going—Power King carries through without missing a beat The reason? 12, 14 and 18 hp engines applied through Power King's all-gear drive deliver almost 100% power to the big drive wheels That's why you move right along with a 60" mower, load fast with a ⅓ ton bucket, bulldoze, clear a 48" path of snow in a hurry

American-built Power King is a machine, not a toy! Automotive clutch, transmission, differential, 1½" axles, for example

Dairy vaccination, parasite control reviewed

NEW CHESTER – Herd vaccination and parasite control were topics for discussion at Dairy Day held recently in St. John's United Church at New Chester. Co-sponsored by the Penn State Extension Service and Atlantic Breeders Co-operative, the morning was presided over by County Agent Thomas E. Piper and attended by 100 dairymen.

After review ig the general types of immunity and describing the forms of vaccines, speaker Dr. Larry Hutchinson, Extension veterinarian from Penn State recommended vaccination of heifer calves for Brucellosis and said this must be done when calves are in the two to six month age group.

If Leptospirosis has been diagnosed in the area, vaccination should be started. Hutchinson explained the difficulty of diagnosing IBR, BVD and other virus diseases and outlined recommended vaccination programs.

"Dairymen maintaining a bull on the farm should watch for Vibriosis. Good vaccines are available when needed" said Dr Hutchinson. "Vaccines are easily killed or damaged by improper handling," said

Dr. Larry Hutchinson

Hutchinson. He suggested sanitation measures which must be taken if vaccination is to be successful.

Turning to control measures for external parasites, the veterinarian explained the differences between mange and lice and listed Ciodrin Ciovep, Malathion and Rotenon for control. He said to follow all label recommendations and plan to apply two or more treatments.

Internal parasites produce eggs which pass in droppings. Under warm, moist conditions these hatch and will re-enter the digestive tract as larvae when they are picked up on pasture grass or contaminated feeds. Mid-March to Mid-April is a good time to have manure samples checked for worm eggs. Because these are microscopic in size, samples must be examined in a laboratory. Fecal exams should be repeated in the Fall of the year.

Calves have no immunity to worms and are most susceptible to damage. This is often a problem when calves are kept in group pens, especially when ages vary. To control internal parasites in young calves, treatments should be given at three, five, seven, 12, 18 and 24 months of age, beginning about March 1.

"Treatment of mature animals is less certain of benefit," said Hutchinson. He reported some research findings showing 400 to 1100 pounds of milk per cow improved production. However, fecal examination in some cases reveal only 50 percent of the cows infested. "Worming at calving time usually is most beneficial" he added "A lot of herds will benefit from a good worming program for heifers; fewer herds will benefit from worming the milking herd. The only way to determine need/benefit is to have fecal examinations made."

Prevention of exposure to worm eggs is important. If calves are raised in groups, one should be sure they are of near equal age, and do not permit animals to eat off the floor besides avoiding manure contamination of feed and water supplies. Rotation of pastures and fencing off of wet areas was recommended-the latter step vital for control of lungworms. "Dirty calving pens is a big source of infection", said Hutchinson.

In response to a question about ringworm, Hutchinson said this fungus disease is favored by high humidity, and he called for improved ventilation and the feeding of supplemental Vitamin A. Use of iodide and TBZ paste is helpful in treatment.

"S.T.O.P." stands for swab test on premises" said Hutchinson. He explained this 24 hour test is now in use to monitor for drug resideues in animals. He cautioned the dairymen to keep good records on use of antibiotics, adhere strictly to withdrawal requirements and avoid certain materials which have longer effective periods

Milk strike means lower prices for dairy farmers

By DIETER KRIEG

LANDISBURG — The Teamsters milk strike in New York City may last yet another month and cause a drop of 15 cents per hundredweight on the March blend price, says Tom Wilson, administrator of the New York - New Jersey Federal Milk Marketing Order. He made the comment here last week during a meeting with dairymen from Perry County and surrounding area.

The strike's effect will be felt by dairymen supplying milk to plants regulated under Order 2.

According to the administrator, some stores in the New York metropolitan area are voluntarily rationing milk while others have no milk on their shelves at all. The public, he reports has in some instances been paying as much as $8 just to get a gallon of milk. Hospitals, he added, are sending vans and station wagons into New Jersey and Connecticut to get milk for their patients. Some handlers, who are trying hard to keep the milk supply flowing, are going as far south as Baltimore to find packaged milk.

Among Wilson's concerns is the possibility that the strike may become violent. Thus far the striking truckers have allowed packaged milk shipments to come into various stores. If that changes, Wilson believes "something will have to happen." He notes that the change in leadership within the local Teamsters has fostered a more belligerent attitude. If violence erupts the drop in the blend price could be greater than 15 cents per hundredweight, he pointed out.

The truckers that are on strike have been identified as members of Local 584 of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters. Their activities affect milk plants located in New York City and Long Island that are covered by union contracts.

Wilson also estimated that the February uniform price would not be unaffected by the shutdown of New York City milk plants. Four days of February were included in the strike which began on Feb. 24. Those four days (Sunday through Wednesday) saw advanced purchasing and hording by consumers, he said, and kept milk plants in upstate New York and nearby New Jersey operating at above normal levels to meet the demand.

Describing the pricing situation in a prepared news release Wilson explained:

The uniform price is a marketwide weighted average of the value of farm milk used in fluid and manufactured dairy products. The strike will result in a shift of utilization from higher value fluid milk products to lower value manufactured milk products. The major causes of lost Class I fluid utilization are the loss of school milk sales, increased inter-Order milk movements where the milk is priced and pooled under another Federal Mrketing Order, and decreased consumer buying due to the inconvenience, higher prices, and unavailability."

Grazing and hay program proposed

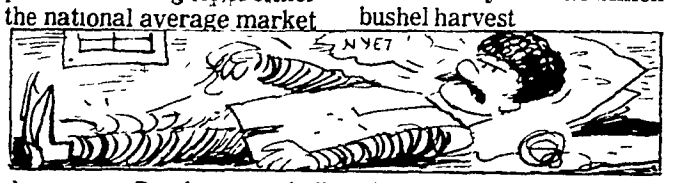
WASHINGTON, D.C. - Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland recently proposed to allow wheat farmers special grazing and hay privileges on their 1979-crop.

Under the proposal, farmers would be allowed to graze cattle or cut hay on wheat acreage equal to a maximum of 40 per cent of their total intended plantings of wheat, feed grains and upland cotton or 50 acres, whichever is larger. Wheat that was grazed or cut for hay would qualify for the same deficiency payment rate as wheat harvested as grain. The deficiency payment rate for 1978-crop wheat was 52 cents per bushel. The 1979 deficiency payment rate will be computed in December.

The proposal does not provide for an advance payment or minimum payment guarantee this year as was provided to 1978 wheat special wheat grazing and hay program participants.

The deficiency payment rate is the difference between the established target price and the higher of either the national average market price during the first five months of the marketing year, or the national loan rate. For 1979, the target price is $3.40 per bushel, the national loan rate is $2.35 per bushel and the first five months of the marketing year are June through November.

The February Wheat Situation report issued by the department predicted 1979 wheat production would exceed last year's 1.8 billion-bushel harvest.



In ancient Russia it was believed that a skein of red wool wound about the arms and legs would ward off fevers.

ASA endorses Carter's statement

MANSON, Iowa – The American Soybean Association says it heartedly endorses President Carter's desire for Congressional approval of the extension of Most Favored Nation status to the Soviet Union and the People's Republic of China.

"These two countries represent tremendous potential markets for soybeans and other U.S. farm products," ASA president Merlyn Groot, a Manson, Iowa soybean farmer, said in a telegram to the President. "Most Favored Nation status, as well as the extension of Commodity Credit Corporation credits, will be extremely valuable to American Soybean Association market development programs in these countries. An ASA study clearly shows that the granting of CCC credits to countries with non-market economies results in expanded exports of soybeans and other farm products."

AND ALL THE KINGS HORSES AND ALL THE KINGS MEN, COULDN'T PUT HUMPTY DUMPTY TOGETHER AGAIN.

This gives a clue as to why naturally grown feed and food gives better results. Feed testing companies say there is more in it and better balanced. They don't have to add so much and so many components together again to make it a good feed. It was there in good balance in the first place by the Divine blueprint. Probably many unknown factors are in it.

Occasionally scientists deserve a new factor. These scientists are "Johnie Come Late." The author of organic farming knew those factors when He made the world. If we would give the feed according to His natural law, it would be there originally. It is too easy to make mistakes in putting together again a formula from deficient crops, grown with deficient fertilizer. Even trying to balance a fertilizer chemically doesn't work like naturally.

If organic grown crops would be low in yield, then we wouldn't blame you for being reluctant. But our new products and programs and formulations are producing record crops now. It is "progress" and there is no excuse. You heard that you can't have your cake and eat it too. Forget that in this case. Our program gets quality crops plus high yields. Ask for literature about the high producing Ream's program and the BX soil bacteria to make it work even more efficiently, more economically than before, $12.50 per acre would cut your fertilizer bill in half and give a better crop, at least in quality, and improve the soil, and reduce or cancel the need for insecticides. And the main components are hi-calcium lime and soft rock phosphate out of Fla. mines which we sell in bulk at only $80 per ton because no hand handling, bags or blending are involved. We scoop it into the trucks (spreader or dump) right out of the rail cars.f The best buy we know of. Free delivery locally if we can dump it at your barn for mixing with manure. It does much better when mixed with manure than when each are applied separately.

FREE SOIL TESTING by a local Reams tester if you take a load of phosphate.

DEALERS WANTED for BX and rock phosphate. Get your BX territory. It will become popular. It is producing record crops without fertilizer, clean root crops without fumugating, and revive sick asparagus and fruit, plus fringe benefits.

THE NEW HIGH OCTANE PERFORMANCE TEAM

Approximately three years ago Ralston Purina released revolutionary new growing and finishing rations called High Octane Hog Chows. They were based on several major nutrition discoveries by Purina Swine Research.

Today, you can take advantage of the High Octane breakthrough from the very moment pigs are farrowed ... a lactation ration ... a pre-starter ration ... a starter ration, and the already well-established growing and finishing Hog Chows.

So now you can go all the way with Purina High Octane Chows. Four feed products known as ... The High Octane Performance Team.

	WHAT THEY NEED	WHAT WE PROVIDE
FARROWING CHOW® easier, safer farrowing	FARROWING ■ Laxative feed for easy, safe farrowing. ■ Appetite satisfaction. ■ Medication to reduce scours-causing organisms. ■ Low-energy, bulky ration to reduce incidence of MMA.	FARROWING ■ Special laxative ingredients to prevent constipation. ■ Palatable formula to satisfy appetite. ■ Medication with high activity against scours-causing salmonella types of organisms. ■ Low-energy, bulky, pelleted formula.
HIGH OCTANE® LACTATION CHOW® more milk, stronger sows	LACTATION ■ Help in producing lots of better-quality milk, even in hot weather. ■ Sufficient nourishment to wean heavier litters without excessive sow weight losses. ■ High nutrient levels which prevent sows from robbing their muscle tissues and bones to make milk.	LACTATION ■ High nutrient density to support production of superior quality and quantity of milk. ■ Correct balance of energy, amino acids, vitamins and minerals needed to wean heavier litters. ■ Necessary nourishment needed to prevent body-robbing and excessive weight losses.
HIGH OCTANE® BABY PIG CHOW® starts 'em right	NEWBORN PIGS ■ High palatability. ■ Excellent digestibility. ■ Correct ingredients needed to supplement sow's milk and promote fast, early growth. ■ High nutrient concentration to accommodate the pig's small stomach.	NEWBORN PIGS ■ Attractive aroma and great taste appeal, specially packaged to seal in freshness. ■ Ingredients specifically chosen for easy digestibility...combined into a small particle size. ■ Proper balance of nutrients needed to promote fast, early growth while nursing. ■ High nutrient density formula designed to ensure every ounce gives pigs a real boost.
HIGH OCTANE® PIG STARTENA® you can see the difference	15 to 50 LBS. ■ Good palatability. ■ High digestibility. ■ Plenty of nutritional power. ■ Help in fighting disease and stress.	15 to 50 LBS. ■ Special ingredients selected for tastiness and good aroma combined with "ett" form for easy eating. ■ High biological availability of nutrients for easy digestibility. ■ High nutrient density balance of energy, amino acids, vitamins and minerals needed for improved growth and reduced conversion. ■ High level antibacterial drug to reduce effects of stress and help prevent disease.
